TREATY SIGNING SUNDAY

Russians Bow To Ultimatum On Austria

VIENNA, Austria (UP)—The Soviet Union agreed today to sign an Austrian state treaty on western terms in one of the biggest breaks of the long cold war.

The east-west agreement paved the way for the Big Four foreign ministers to meet in Vienna this week-end to sign the treaty and arrange a later conference of the Big Four heads of government.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson, head of the American treaty delegation, told newsmen at the end of today's crucial session:

"The treaty will be signed Sunday."

He said a joint five-power communique would be issued later today on the successful outcome of the parley.

The sudden break in the treaty negotiations came after 11 days of deadlock over the terms of article 35 of the 59-article document. Article 35 governs Austria's debts to the Soviet Union.

The dispute involved Austrian oil and shipping properties, which the Russians took over as war reparations. The Soviets promised Austria last month that these properties would be returned. This was a sensational concession, as Monday Russia had refused to write it into the treaty.

The west insisted, and won its point, that the agreement be put into the treaty.

U.S. ULTIMATUM

The deadlock had threatened to break up the conference. The United States had served an ultimatum on the Soviet Union to agree upon a completed draft treaty today or call off Sunday's foreign ministers session at which the treaty was to be signed.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had announced in Paris that he would fly home instead of to Vienna if the Soviets continued to block agreement on the one remaining key article of the treaty draft.

But when the Soviets backed down and agreed to the west's demands, the western Big Three foreign ministers headed for Vienna.

British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay made definite plans to fly here tomorrow. An American spokesman said "it is likely" that Dulles would come here at the same time.

It had been announced previously that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov would fly to Vienna from Warsaw Saturday. That night he will play host at dinner to the other foreign ministers.

Under the treaty, a neutral Austria will emerge. It will be the first time this nation has enjoyed full freedom since it was overrun and annexed by Germany under Adolf Hitler in 1938.

Since the end of the Second World War Austria has been occupied by troops of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union. Withdrawal of these troops is expected to start even before the treaty is formally ratified by the Big Four governments.

Heroic Mother Dies Beside Her Children

AMHERSTBURG, Ont. (CP)—A mother and her three children died Wednesday night in flames which destroyed their home. The mother apparently lost her life during a vain attempt to rescue her eight-year-old son.

The dead: Mrs. Marjorie Smith, 30; her daughters, Patsy, 13, and Carol, 12, and her son, Billy.

Firemen said they found Mrs. Smith died in the boy's bedroom. They said her arms were around the child and she appeared to have been overcome while trying to get him to safety.

Carol and Patsy tried to make their way to safety down the blazing stairway from the second floor but died at the door of their room.

RED MARSHAL SENDS IKE BEST WISHES

MOSCOW (UP)—Soviet Marshal V. D. Sokolovsky, chief of staff of Soviet armed forces, today sent "friendly greetings and best wishes" to President Eisenhower.

The occasion was a gala reception and banquet given for the American and Russian veterans of the meeting at the Elbe River in the Second World War.

Sokolovsky was asked by the United Press if he had any message for President Eisenhower. He replied: "Give him my friendly greetings and best wishes. Of course, I remember him—we spent six months on the control council" (Allied Control Council in Berlin after the end of the Second World War).

The Russian marshal's "friendly greetings" came only a matter of days after Mr. Eisenhower had disclosed he was exchanging "personal" letters with Russian Defence Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Sokolovsky was head of the Russian delegation on the Allied Control Council for Germany in 1948.

IWA Wage Dispute to Conciliation

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two government labor officials today recommended appointment of a conciliation board after failing to break a bargaining deadlock between 32,000 union woodworkers and coast lumber and logging operators.

A conciliation board is expected to be set up within three weeks.

Margaret's Fancy Hits London As Chaplain Raps Divorce Rules

From CP and UP Dispatches

LONDON—A new dance called "Princess Margaret's Fancy" hit London Wednesday night, and the Queen's 24-year-old sister helped to introduce it.

The occasion was the English Folk Dance and Song Society's exhibition. Within 15 minutes of her arrival, Princess Margaret was out on the floor swinging and whirling with 250 other dancers.

Later she joined Britain's clog-dance champion, Jack Toaduff, a 21-year-old miner from Newcastle, in a square dance. Said Toaduff: "She's smashing and so easy to talk to. It was the biggest thrill of my life. Oh well, back to the pit on Monday."

The princess, who danced for three hours, wore the first royal version of the A-line, a pale pink and mauve taffeta gown, blowing out from below the hips.

Meanwhile a statement by the Queen's chaplain that he was

Lyle Robertson Top UBC Arts' Graduate

Governor-General's Gold Medal Added to Victorian's Laurels

By PETE LOUDON

Twenty-one-year-old Lyle P. Robertson is winner of the Governor-General's gold medal as top UBC graduate in arts, it was announced today.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Robertson at 941 McKenzie Avenue, say at last writing their son reported he thought his results would be "fair" and added: "Oh, I guess I'll get through."

Lyle's father, who is a compositor with the Queen's printer here, is very proud of his prize-winning son.

He topped his Victoria High graduating class and was second highest in the province in averages. He has taken so many scholarships that his parent can't recall them all.

Last week he was awarded an $800 bursary by the National Research Council. Mr. Robertson's ambition is to be a nuclear physicist. He will continue classes at UBC through the summer on the way to his master's degree. His mother says he believes three more years at the "university will bring his Ph.D."

In Victoria he attended Sir James Douglas, Victoria High (where his 17-year-old brother, Terry, graduates this year), and Victoria College. He led the second-year class at the college. He was born in Vancouver but has lived here since he was two months old.

Other Victorians awarded scholarships are: Walter Komarnicky, 2548 Blanshard, winner of a $500 Dr. F. J. Nicholson scholarship; Walter C. MacDonald, 2835 Beach, who won an honor medal and $100 prize for highest academic standing in fourth year medicine; Rowland Grant, 2421 Cedar Hill, winner of a $950 Standard Oil Fellowship, and Rose Ginsberg, 3185 Weald, who took the $25 David Bolocan Memorial Prize for attainments in philosophy and psychology.

This year's Rhodes scholar, announced last December, is Walter Douglas Young, 2527 Thompson.

A total of 903 degrees were handed out to the 1955 graduating class at UBC Monday and Tuesday next week. Three Victorians will be among five receiving honorary degrees. (See Page 3.)

PM REJECTS PROBE DEMAND

OTTAWA (BUP)—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent today rejected Opposition demands that he investigate an Ontario political dispute over unreported campaign contributions.

He also refused to start a personal investigation into the action of Revenue Minister J. J. McCann in giving information to Premier Leslie Frost regarding gifts to James Dempsey, former provincial member for Renfrew South. (See also page 3.)

4 Province Police Alert For Convict

Manitoba Escapée 'Extremely Dangerous'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Search for a scar-faced convict, described by police as "extremely dangerous," was launched throughout western Canada today.

Police established roadblocks in southern Manitoba as the hunt for 36-year-old Alexander Zakopiac began. Zakopiac, serving a 30-year prison term for attempted murder and armed bank robbery, escaped early today from the mental hospital at Selkirk, 30 miles north of here, where he was undergoing observation. He had recently been transferred from Stony Mountain penitentiary.

Winnipeg's inspector of detectives, James Mulholland, said Zakopiac is "one of the worst criminals we've had in years."

Zakopiac, described by police as a drug addict, was wanted in Vancouver for attempted murder but officials there did not execute their warrant when he was given 30 years in Manitoba.

An RCMP officer said Zakopiac is suffering from fear and might draw a gun at any time.

Bomb Shatters Car; Girl, 2 Men Die

VALCARTIER, Que. (BUP)—Three of four persons trespassing on the sprawling Valcartier military camp to pick up old grenades and shells to sell as scrap metal were killed Wednesday night when a grenade suddenly went off in a shattering explosion.

The broken bodies of the victims and the wreckage of their nine-year-old car were found early today scattered over a wide area. The wife of one of the victims, protected by the car when the grenade exploded, survived. She was taken to a hospital with cuts and fractured skull.

SIGNS IGNORED

Col. Harold Cathcart, camp commandant, said the party had invaded a firing range last night despite numerous "no trespassing" signs in English and French. He said the watch of one of the victims stopped at 10:15.

Cathcart said the party, including a 16-year-old girl, had loaded 40 or 50 shell and rocket casings and some grenades into their car parked in a stretch of sand. The load apparently was too heavy, and the car bogged down. He said it was believed the grenade exploded when they started to unload some of the cargo.

DISCARDED BOMBS

The grenade was one of several the party picked up, all of them marked to be destroyed by experts today after they had failed to explode when thrown during an exercise.

Cathcart said the party arrived at the camp at about 9 p.m. A patrol passed the area an hour later but didn't see them, and the accident was not discovered until early today.

The victims were identified by the Rev. Jules Edmond, parish priest of the neighboring village of St. Gerard-Majella, where they lived.

They were Paul Odillon Daigle, 25, father of two children; Adrien Labrache, 22, and Marie Claire Daigle, 16. Paul Daigle and Marie Daigle were not related. Mrs. Paul Daigle was injured.

China Pledges Aid to Soviet If Europe War

U.S. Castigated At Red NATO

WARSAW (AP)—Communist China pledged today that she will fight alongside the Soviet Union and her allies if war is unleashed in Europe.

Peng Teh-huai, Red China's defense minister and deputy prime minister, made that declaration at today's session of the Warsaw conference of Soviet bloc nations. The conference was called to set up a Communist counterpart of NATO.

The Red Chinese delegate declared too that Peiping stands firmly for peaceful co-existence. He said his government is ready to negotiate on any international differences, including Formosa.

8 SOVIET SATELLITES

Peng is attending the Warsaw conference as an observer. The eight conference nations are the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, Albania and East Germany.

Peng, according to an unofficial but full translation of his speech, told the delegates:

"If peace in Europe be encroached upon and if the imperialist aggressors unleash war against peaceful European countries then our government and our 600,000,000 heroic people will, together with the governments of peoples of our fraternal countries, conduct a struggle against aggression until ultimate victory is achieved."

Peng said "should there be a war, our countries will deal the imperialists a mortal blow following which the capitalist system will be definitely annihilated."

Peng accused the United States of seeking to dominate the world. He charged that American monopolists, intent on war for gaining world domination, "intensify from day to day their control of the economic and political lives of their country and can any day make an attack and drive the world into war."

Overnight is expected to be free from overcast, allowing the little remaining moonlight this month to brighten the night.

The 270-pound swimmer plans to make his swim in less than 10 hours if he swims according to schedule. If successful, Thomas will reach Port Angeles near 6 a.m. Friday.

He leaves the final decision on whether the weather looks favorable to his navigator Captain Hugh Evans, who has said he will wait for as perfect conditions as possible.

Commons Hears Problems Facing Storm-Harassed Sask. Farmers

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

The problems of Saskatchewan's flood-harassed farmers have been placed before the Commons in the closing stages of its budget debate.

Two CCF members from the province said Wednesday the federal government should pay $10 an acre for farmland flooded out of production as a result of last week's storm.

H. A. Bryson, Humboldt-Melfort, proposed the payment be made on any land unseeded after June 1. A. M. Nicholson, MacKenzie, backed the suggestion and estimated it would cost about $20,000,000.

Henry Mang (L.-Qu'Appelle)

Said Worst Single Disaster

In the discussion on Saskatchewan flooding, Mr. Bryson said it is "the worst single disaster that has ever happened to any province."

He said the prospective crop loss to farmers is a more serious problem than the heavy property damage. Federal aid should not be confined to reimbursing property losses.

The floods had followed last year's crop failures which cut Saskatchewan's crop 36 per cent. Farmers had been holding out, cutting living standards and stretching their credit, in hopes of a normal crop. Now they faced "something more than a disaster."

Mr. Nicholson said crop failures and falling markets have reduced farm income to the point where some wheat growers are unable to meet their taxes, merchants' bills and instalment payments on farm machinery.

Mr. Mang said that if the drainage problem is not met, soil productivity in some areas will be destroyed. Lands with several years of excess moisture were being soured by continual evaporation.

A 79-year-old senator suggested Wednesday that the Senate is being destroyed by a slow process of attrition—the fact 21 vacancies have been allowed to develop in the 102-seat appointed House.

Senator William Euler of Kitchener, Ont., one-time trade minister, said he is not advocating the Senate should continue as part of Canada's parliamentary system.

"But I do submit," he said, port Saturday from a Saskatchewan Liberal.

J. H. Harrison, Meadow Lake, said he doesn't think Mr. Finlayson was treated "any too well."

He added, however, that he disagrees with Mr. Finlayson's views of Hon. George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

Mr. Harrison said the Conservative party's political situation in western Canada is due to its policies.

"They have nothing else to thank for it," he said.

Three RCN Ships Out of Port On Courtesy Calls

Three ships of the RCN Pacific Command are away from home port today on courtesy calls.

In response to an invitation from the Bellingham Blossom Time Festival committee, HMCS Cayuga left this morning for a three-day visit to that port.

This is the first time Cayuga has been away from Canadian waters since the theft, nearly three weeks ago, of $14,500 in ship's money.

HMC ships Fortune and James Bay, of the Second Canadian Minesweeping Squadron, left this morning for New Westminster to assist in the annual May Queen celebrations there.

She Wants Marriage—Not Peonage

VANCOUVER (CP)—It was an easy life for farmer Benjamin Crowe.

"He stayed in bed while I went for the cows—at 4:30 a.m. each day," Dorothy Pentland, 40, told the court Wednesday.

She is suing the 64-year-old farmer for breach of promise to marry her and a half-interest in his dairy farm.

Miss Pentland said she tended the cows for 17 years as well as acting as housekeeper for Crowe. She received no pay.

Crowe, she claims, promised to marry her in 1937.

It was not known if any member of the 10-man opposition in the 61-seat House has had any dealings with the agency.

He said that Attorney-General Lucien Maynard will make a statement in the House today.

Mr. Manning said the Liberal leader was "wrong in law."

Mr. Manning, in moving adjournment until today, described the implications as "too serious" to let pass without checking on the technicality of the matter.

Alta. Sacred MLAs Said Disqualified

EDMONTON (CP)—A legal bomb hit the Alberta legislature Wednesday, sending Social Credit members into a three-hour emergency caucus to find out if they are sitting legally in the Assembly.

The legislature was adjourned suddenly by Premier Manning after Liberal opposition leader J. Harper Prowse said members of the Social Credit government and its supporters who did business with the government's treasury branches disqualified themselves by violating the Legislative Assembly Act.

GATT Blamed For Aussie Trade Slump

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Some Australian farmers, manufacturers and traders want Australia to withdraw from the 34-country General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Critics blame GATT for the recent cuts Australia made in her imports, the troubles of the Australian wheat industry in markets overseas and the difficulties of Australian manufacturers seeking to compete in world markets against countries with cheaper production costs.

Trade Minister John McEwen answered the critics by saying in effect: "We are unhappy about GATT. We know that it has its faults, but it is the only agreement there is and better to belong to it than 'go it alone.'"

CONDITIONS CHANGED The main criticism of GATT in Australia centres around the imperial preferences worked out in Ottawa in 1932. The agreement, which "freezes" existing tariff arrangements, means that the terms of the Ottawa agreement must be preserved, and Australians say Ottawa preferences now are working against Australia.

Australian criticism says the Ottawa agreement gives British manufacturers protection in Australian markets.

PREMIER FROST ASKS FOR FULL ACCOUNTING

TORONTO (BUP)—Premier Leslie Frost publicly asked James Dempsey Wednesday night for a "full and complete" explanation of the campaign contributions he received but failed to report during the 1951 Ontario election.

Until this is done, the premier said, official endorsement of Dempsey as the Conservative candidate for South Renfrew in the June 9 vote will continue to be withheld.

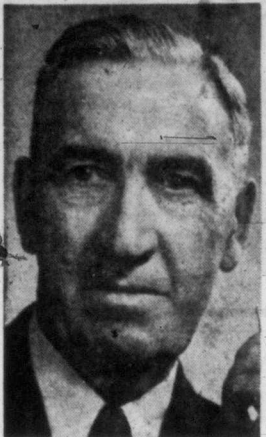

Frost, who spoke to a party rally at Maple, said Dempsey had made "conflicting" statements since the affair was first disclosed.

CROP FORECAST

Wheat Seeding To Be Off 16%

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Free Press today forecast a reduction of 3,806,000 acres in wheat production on the Prairies this year, the result of excessive moisture and flooding.

In its first crop reports of the season, The Free Press estimated a total wheat crop area of 19,631,000, a decrease of 16.2 per cent over last year when 23,437,000 acres were seeded.

The report shows that practically all of the decrease—3,671,000 acres—would occur in Saskatchewan, now recovering from one of the worst spring storms in living memory.

Wheat acreage in Manitoba will be reduced only 1 per cent and 1.9 per cent respectively compared with a cutback of 23.6 per cent in Saskatchewan.

PREDICT RYE DECREASE

Part of the water-soaked wheatlands will be turned to faster-maturing oats and barley. Flax acreage will also be up while a slight decrease is indicated for rye, the report says.

Reports show that 6,932,000 acres will be seeded to oats, an increase of 6,715,000 over 1954. Barley acreage should total 7,937,000, an increase of 4.9 per cent over last year.

Seeding is becoming general this week in most southern districts and operations are expected to start in central and northern areas next week. Seeding is progressing rapidly in southwestern Manitoba, western Saskatchewan and southern Alberta.

Dempsey 'Gift' Stirs New Fire

Political Trickery Charged McCann

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann has been accused of using his knowledge of an Ontario Progressive Conservative's campaign funds for political gain. He has been challenged in the Commons to tell all.

George Hees, national president of the Progressive Conservatives, has charged Dr. McCann deliberately withheld his knowledge that James Dempsey failed to report a $6,800 political contribution.

Mr. Hees said Dr. McCann kept it quiet for two years so that he could make political capital of it on the eve of the provincial election, called for June 9.

Fred S. Zaplity (CCF-Dauphin), taking it up in the Commons Wednesday, challenged Dr. McCann to make public everything he knows about the contribution, made to Mr. Dempsey's 1951 election campaign for the Renfrew South seat he has held in the Ontario legislature for the last 10 years.

RESIGNATION DEMANDED

And, Mr. Zaplity added, if what Mr. Dempsey says—that he discussed the matter with Dr. McCann two years ago and was told income tax officials would ignore it if the MP minded his Ps and Qs—if that is true, then the revenue minister should resign.

Heatedly, Dr. McCann said that statement by Mr. Dempsey is "absolutely false in every particular."

Mr. Dempsey has admitted he received the money, which he said was closer to $5,000 than $6,800, on behalf of the Progressive Conservative party from the late James Drohan, a constituent.

Dr. McCann, Commons member for Renfrew South and a director of the trust company that is executor of Mr. Drohan's estate, has admitted telling Premier Frost of Ontario about the contributions.

The information cost Mr. Dempsey, 68-year-old Ottawa valley lumberman, the official support of the Progressive Conservative party. But party supporters in the Renfrew area are reported willing to line up behind Mr. Dempsey if he wins the nomination Saturday that he relinquished after first winning it April 16, before the funds affair rose.

GARSON SILENT

Mr. Zaplity asked Dr. McCann to disclose under what statute he told Premier Frost about the contributions. And Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) demanded that Justice Minister Garson say whether he will prosecute Dr. McCann for alleged violation of a secrecy provision of the succession duties act in connection with the issue. Mr. Garson did not reply.

Meanwhile, in Smiths Falls, Ont., before the Eastern Ontario Conservative Association, Mr. Hees said:

"And how did the minister give the information to Mr. Frost? It just happened that Dr. McCann and Mr. Forest were at the Dominion-Provincial conference (April 26-27) together and it just happened that Dr. McCann had some photostats of the Dempsey receipts (for the contributions) in his pockets."

"Dr. McCann just thought Mr. Frost might be interested in these photostats, strictly from the succession duty point of view, of course, and so he drew Mr. Frost into a corner and let him have a look at the photostats, just like a Parisian postcard vendor trying to peddle his wares."

FOR POLITICAL GAIN

"And so we have the picture of a minister of this government using his department for a purely political gain... It is, however, a little surprising to find a minister of the crown stooping to such obvious back-alley tactics as Dr. McCann has done in an effort to defeat the provincial member in his own riding."

Dr. McCann told the House Monday he had a talk with Mr. Frost at the Ottawa conference. But he did not disclose the nature of the discussion.

He said that under the Income Tax Act and the succession duty act he could not disclose anything concerning estates to persons not entitled to this information.

Dr. McCann said Mr. Frost had a right to the information because he is treasurer of Ontario.

Mr. Zaplity said if the information "which came to the hands of the minister as the result of the administration of an estate—and we are given to understand that this happened a few years ago—was in his possession; and if he felt that the law of the land was being broken or that regulations were not being lived up to, then it was his duty at that time to notify the proper authorities."

LAY PROPER CHARGE

"If he (Dr. McCann) felt that it was an evasion of the Income Tax Act and that undisclosed income was involved, then I think it was his duty to lay a proper charge and to start action at that time."

"And the fact that he did not do so lends credence to the statement made (in Smiths Falls) by the president of the Progressive Conservative Association (Mr. Hees)."

Mr. Zaplity said if Dr. McCann had received information that indicated a law had been violated and withheld it for political purposes, "that in itself, in my opinion, would be enough for the minister to be charged with a great misdemeanor."

RUSS TO ASK CHINA BID?

WASHINGTON (UP)—Russia is likely to demand that Red China be invited to the proposed top-level Big Four meeting, administration officials said today.

They said there is no prospect, however, that President Eisenhower would sit down at a Big Five conference with Premier Chou En-lai, chief of the Chinese Red regime. The United States does not recognize the Peiping government.

Diem Wants French Troops Withdrawn From S. Viet Nam

SAIGON (AP)—Premier Ngo Dinh Diem is asking France to withdraw its army in South Viet Nam to the 17th parallel or pull completely out of the turbulent Indo-China state, a government spokesman said today.

The 17th parallel separates the south from Communist-ruled North Viet Nam. The French expeditionary corps, numbering between 70,000 and 80,000, now is based chiefly in the Saigon area at Tourane in central Viet Nam and at Cap St. Jacques on the coast southeast of the capital.

Prospects of any immediate French compliance with such a request appear slim. The bulk of Viet Nam's French population and of France's holdings are concentrated in the areas where the French troops are based.

Stating the Columbia Case

NORTHERN AFFAIRS AND Natural Resources Minister Jean Lesage has performed a valuable service in defining in detail for British Columbians the federal position on the Columbia River development plan.

In his speech here this week the minister introduced nothing that is significantly new. But he did present a cohesive outline of Ottawa's policy in a way to dispel the mists created by the reports of Social Credit administration spokesmen after the recent conference in the federal capital.

Briefly, Mr. Lesage emphasizes a series of facts.

He says, first, that the Columbia must be developed on a master-plan based on complete engineering information still being gathered.

He points out that the Kaiser deal, apart from other dangers, could establish a risky precedent for a rate of return on downstream benefits—a type of compensation of vital importance where rivers flow from Canada into the United States.

The minister notes the significant point that power costs considered in the Kaiser negotiations were based on production figures of a depression period—not on costs in terms of present-day replacement or construction in the hydro field.

Beyond this, Mr. Lesage has emphasized the Federal Government's readiness to reconsider any part of the legislation which might encroach on provincial rights.

And he has raised a question over the proposal to "fuel" an aluminum industry in the United States which competes, behind tariff protection, with that of Canada.

Inherent in the latter is a much broader issue. The industrial complex of the Pacific Northwest has surged ahead since abundant cheap power was created in that territory several years ago. Because hydro potentials in the northwest states are nearing exhaustion, that part of the U.S. looks northward for additional supplies—looks to the huge potential of the Columbia River in British Columbia.

Under these circumstances Canada must weigh a simple question: Shall it be, almost literally, the hewer of wood and drawer of water for the Pacific Northwest states, or shall it seek industrial development for itself based on the very hydro power which the northwest states can apparently acquire only from Canadian geography?

In this particular field, as in others noted in recent years by External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson, the days of easy co-operation between the two countries are drawing to a close. A more highly competitive era is dawning.

This does not mean that Canada faces an unending battle with her good friends to the south. It does mean, however, that Canada's future must be given first consideration in the use of resources which Canada has and which the United States wants.

Mr. Lesage has made that fact quite plain. It will doubtless be recognized by Mr. Len Jordan, American chairman of the International Joint Commission, who has a very understandable concern for future developments on the Columbia and the Kootenay.

If one single fact emerges from the entire question it is this: Because British Columbia water power is such a vital factor in the development of this part of Canada in the years to come, it is far too important to be influenced by premature actions at this time. Mr. Lesage, in effect, warns B.C. not to marry Kaiser in haste and repent at leisure.

A Billion Dollar Asset

THE STATEMENT THAT THE tourist industry in the northwest is a billion dollar asset—bigger even than forestry—has been attributed to Dr. Weldon B. Gibson, economist of Stanford.

It was reported at the Pacific Northwest Trade Association meeting in Vancouver shortly before delegates heard U.S. Senator Warren G. Magnuson suggest a series of bridges connecting Vancouver Island with the U.S. mainland. The atmosphere of the meeting was buoyant.

The bridge proposal can safely be left to the engineers. But the remarks of Dr. Gibson emphasize a line of thought which has been given increasing credence in recent years.

On this Island and in this province progressive interests which have sought to exploit natural resources for hard cash have had their attention drawn periodically to the fact that some of their development work was seriously injuring natural beauty and recreational facilities. Frequently the arguments of conservationists have concentrated on the aesthetic values which are destroyed. Usually it has been difficult to pin down in terms of money what those assets are worth.

There is, of course, a direct financial return from the tourist industry. It is measured in the cash registers of hundreds of agencies which cater to the visitors. But there is another important material return attributed to recreational assets. They save money by providing facilities for people to avoid the expense of ill health, mental and physical. Government departments are clear in their minds on the economics of recreation in this respect.

The report on Dr. Gibson's remarks makes no detailed breakdown of the items which go to make the tourist industry a billion dollar asset. It is reasonable to assume, however, that he has facts to support his statement. He at least furnishes one more strong voice in favor of retaining natural grandeur, be it in the form of timber stands or lake lands, for recreational purposes. And he puts a price tag on it to bring his argument home to interests which want the ring of the coin to prove the honesty of the claim.

They Are Old and Lonely

IN BOARDING AND NURSING homes in Saanich, the welfare administrator of that municipality reports, there are 25 elderly people, men and women, who have no relatives.

They seldom receive visitors and the sunset of living is for them a lonely period.

The situation is not unique. But in certain Victoria centres auxiliaries manage to make life a little less desolate for inmates through a system of adopting such people, making them feel important and extending to them certain little cares and courtesies.

The same procedure might be followed in Saanich. An individual or a family who found time to visit these patients, take them for car rides, write them letters or prove to them in some way that they are not forgotten would be adding sunshine to lives that are otherwise drab. In the performance of such services, the younger people, too, would be adding something to their own lives—a sense of usefulness and sympathy that would be a stimulating force in their own development.

Where Is Our Wandering Boy?

UNDER THE SPONSORSHIP OF the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, the Quebec town of Shawinigan Falls has become the "twin" of Ontario's Hamilton in a new procedure calculated to create affinities between different centres.

The hope of the sponsors, according to their executive director, is that this association will stimulate interest by one in the culture of the other. In this case a town predominantly French-speaking will swap ideas and messages with one where English is dominant.

This, it is suggested, should lead to better understanding between the two and help to foster closer national unity.

Perhaps it will. But these expressions of inter-city affection have a tendency to lose their ardor. About 10 years ago Victoria established a familial tie with another city by "adopting" Sevastopol. Toasts were drunk at a ceremonial dinner with the officers of a ship from that port. Pledges of friendship were exchanged.

Funny though, we don't hear much about Sevastopol these days.

LOOSE ENDS

The Yeast of Antigonish

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

ANTIGONISH, N.S.: Antigonish means, in the Indian tongue, "The place where bears break branches while eating hazel nuts." Or so it is believed in the legendry of this astounding little town, which is astounding not only in its mouth-filling name, but in its contents. Perhaps those contents are the most important asset of the Maritime provinces.

Hutchison

Just before the great depression began some of the priests and professors of St. Francis Xavier University looked about them and concluded that man's society—apart from religious considerations—was in a bad way. That diagnosis was confirmed in the following years. Hence began one of the most interesting experiments ever tried in Canada.

THE UNIVERSITY undertook a plan called adult education but it soon expanded into a movement now penetrating the underprivileged areas of the entire world. Pilgrims, by no means all Catholics, come to Antigonish from Africa, Asia, Europe, the West Indies and many other places where the common man is now seeking a new deal.

The new deal preached by the Antigonish Movement appears at first sight disarmingly simple. It has nothing to do with communism, of course, with socialism or with any other recognized ideology. It proposes only to educate men and women after they have left school and to train them in group organization for the management of their local affairs.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER has no great, easy, foolproof plan of reform to offer. It is skeptical of all great plans and especially of state plans. Instead, it works from the grass roots among fishermen, farmers and labor unions, and in the Maritimes it has already conducted something like a quiet social revolution, mainly a revolution of the mind.

The people who meet in study groups—usually in so-called "kitchen meetings" at some farmer's house—decide to form a co-operative in the management of their affairs. The true inspiration of the Antigonish Movement is the co-operative movement of Britain, altered to suit the economic climate of Canada.

THE economic results of this work among the poor people of the Maritimes are too extensive to be told here, but the inner psychological result is far more important: St. Xavier has taught these people that they can have a better life if they will only work together. And the Movement has been so successful that countless foreign visitors beat a path to the doors of the little university on its hill above the river.

Last night I dined there with the faculty, on fresh-caught lobsters, and came away with a new sense of the Maritime character, as founded here long ago on the granite of Scottish settlers.

IN WESTERN CANADA we are inclined to think of the Maritimes as a backward area, and so it is by the misleading measurement of wealth—backward, that is to say, in comparison with our rich western land. The Maritimes are comparatively poor in resources. But they are rich in ideas. The Antigonish Movement is one of them—a yeast which is daily leavening the whole Maritime loaf.

How this university of only some 900 students and small resources can manage an education movement stretching throughout the Maritimes, with offshoots all over the world, I cannot imagine. When I asked one of the professors how it was done he replied only that it was "very interesting."

NOT ONLY INTERESTING but quite impossible without the free services of hundreds of men and women scattered throughout Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, without hundreds of study groups and "kitchen meetings" in the homes of nameless fishermen and farmers.

Precisely what kind of society these people of the Antigonish Movement propose to build is not fully known even by the builders. In the beginning, the Movement was radical, at least in its speeches and literature, reflecting the economic tragedy of the Maritimes in the depression years. But it never allowed itself to get into politics and never believed that the state could plan things from the top.

Its real purpose was to awaken the minds of the people from the bottom and it believes that they can solve their problems in their own way if they are educated. School education is not enough. The adult mind must be awakened, and it has been awakened hereabouts as perhaps in no other part of the nation.

THE TRULY great men of the Catholic Church who launched the movement—without a trace of religious doctrine—started from a definite premise. They must educate the people in practical things, the farmer in farm methods, the fisherman in the marketing of fish, the miner in the economics of the coal industry. "Culture" in the usual sense of adult education elsewhere would come later when the Maritimes had achieved something like prosperity. It was useless to teach "culture" to a people who wondered where the next meal was coming from.

As a result of this practical education, the Maritimes face their present problems, which are large and daunting, with a working population strangely immune to radical doctrine and generally convinced that the solutions, whatever they may be, must come not mainly from government but from the people themselves.

As Our Readers See It

TEST FOR STRAIT SWIMMERS

I have had a number of letters from Victorians and some easterners who have asked my opinion of a swimmer's chances of ever swimming from Victoria to Port Angeles or the American side.

I would suggest to those wishing to be fair to visitors and locals who desire financial backing and publicity in their efforts to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca, simply ask the swimmer to put his trunks on, put on his glasses and swim back and forth across Horseshoe Bay's entrance for nine hours.

He will have no tides to contend with, no rough water—a boat attendant may feed him or her—if he, or she, can stand the water there (which is five degrees warmer than two miles out), you will get a very good idea whether he, or she is a swimmer or a mere phoney. Swimming along with the current proves nothing other than you can stand the cold water for that length of time. Count the number of crossings he or she makes.

ROD. GIBBONS.

QUESTION FOR ATHEISTS

I would ask atheists whose letters on religion and atheistic tenets are frequently in the Times—How did the universe originate? How did life?

I was told long ago when I encountered atheists such as the late A. B. Sanders, that Christian beliefs are "childish nonsense" and that science is the answer.

Well, I read elementary physics and that brought back my faith on a definite foundation of logical reasoning. Up to then I had always taken my beliefs as a matter of course without considering why I had them.

It is useless as I see it to tell those who do not believe in God, that they must "have faith"—so I just ask them the above questions.

Their answers expose their failure to exercise common intelligence and from a deluded superior height they look down on their fellow human beings as just the most developed of the animals and that we lack souls—have only minds. Their inference is that only atheists have great minds—"The fool hath said in his heart (because he doesn't use his head, too) there is no God."

SCIENCE AND RELIGION

"Old Timer" tells me the sphericity of the earth was accepted and proclaimed in the early centuries by the Church, and goes on to note "the Pope suggests that philosophy and science combine their investigations."

That should give me the privilege of saying something about a Pope, not of "the early centuries" but of 1600 A.D. and who, as Clement VIII, made quite a niche for himself in history, and we'll leave the reader to judge as to whether the Church had by then at that late date accepted anything of science.

This Vicar of Christ then, not so many generations ago, acting in God's place, substitute of the Infinite, persecuted Giordano Bruno even unto death. This great, this sublime man, was tried for heresy. He had ventured to assert the rotary motion of the earth; he had hazarded the conjecture that there were in the fields of infinite space worlds larger and more glorious than ours.

There are two ways to express the same truth: A thinker is never a believer, and a believer is never a thinker.

Finding It Hard to Shake Hands

The 'Island Chain' Myth

By JOSEPH ALSOP, From Tokyo

BEHIND the dizzying twists and turns of American Far Eastern policy in the last two years, there has been a single solid fact that you could, so to speak, safely hang your hat on. At about the time of the Korean truce President Eisenhower and the National Security Council formally adopted a new Pacific strategy—the strategy of "The Island Chain."

And this strategy of the island chain has been and is the inner, unspoken explanation, the unseen mainspring, of every Washington debate and decision about Asia since it was adopted.

On the one hand, those like Admiral Arthur Radford who have advocated a bold American line in Asia, have really been arguing that boldness was needful to defend the island chain on which our strategy is founded.

On the other hand, those like the President himself and in a different sense Gen. Matthew Ridgway, who have voted down Admiral Radford and his group, have justified retreat in Asia on the ground that American interests in the Pacific only required holding the island chain and did not really extend further.

BEHIND THE DRAMA

What then is this strategy of the island which lies behind the drama in the Formosa Strait this year?

In brief, it is a variant of the famous "American line" in the Pacific that former Secretary of State Dean Acheson has been so much denounced for defining just prior to the Korean war. The island chain which this strategy requires to be held by the U.S. runs from Alaska and Attu, through Japan and Okinawa, to Formosa and the Philippines. South Korea is included as an outpost of Japan.

South Korea is ultimately to be defended as Formosa is now defended, by what the Pentagon likes to call "indigenous" forces sustained by an American guarantee and air and naval support in case of attack.

BASIC ABC'S

These are the basic ABC's of Eisenhower Administration policy-making in the Pacific. But in the context of the continuing crisis in the Formosa Strait, the question now has to be asked whether these ABC's which seem so sensible on the surface, in fact add up to valid strategy when one looks beneath the surface.

When one performs this disturbing operation, the first hidden fact that strikes the eye is the obvious insufficiency of our forces in the Pacific to hold this island chain that they are supposed to hold.

A strategy that is island-based is obviously an air and naval strategy primarily. This has been the justification, or rationcination—use what word you please—of the Eisenhower-Wilson-Humphrey cuts in the American ground forces, which have had their greatest impact in the Pacific.

In terms of ground forces, the U.S. has hardly enough strength in the Pacific to put in your eye—four-and-a-half divisions and two combat teams in the Far East Command, with one Marine division still slated to go home. Throw in the 40 odd divisions of South Korea and Nationalist China and the other little bits and pieces like the Japanese self defense force, the South Vietnamese army and the Thai army and air force. There is still nothing that even begins to balance the vast ground armies of Red China, the 20 divisions of the Vietnamese and the powerful Russian infantry in eastern Siberia.

MILITARY BALANCE

This might not be so disquieting, if the air and naval balance were as favorable as the chain strategy obviously demands. But it is precisely at this point that American self-delusion begins in earnest. The air forces on our side that are worth considering are as follows:

First there is the Far East air force, comprising 13 groups (of which three were to have been withdrawn from the Pacific until the Formosa crisis changed the signals). FEAF's whole bomber strength consists of one ludicrously obsolete World War II radial-engined group on Okinawa and the B-36s on Guam. Besides these there are only fighters, including a good many obsolescent F-84s. In all, then, FEAF has approximately 900 planes.

Second, there are the planes of U.S. Pacific fleet, comprising six carriers in all. This adds 450 more aircraft.

Third, there is the Chinese Nationalist air force theoretically comprising six groups. But of these, all but one squadron of F-86s and one group of F-84s are either not yet operational or too obsolete to be counted. This therefore adds another 100 aircraft.

And fourth, there is a South Korean fighter group of 75 F-86s.

CRUDE ADDITION

The crude addition of all the serious air forces on our side in the Pacific, thus gives an approximate total of 1,525 aircraft. The Chinese Communists alone have just about this number of jet aircraft within their total air force of some 1,900 planes.

The Soviet Air Force in Eastern Siberia is at least twice as large as the Chinese Communist force. If there is a fight, there is every reason to expect that Soviet units will at least enter the fight in Chinese disguise, as they did in Korea. The redeployment of the main body of Chinese Communist air into Central China in fact implies reliance on Soviet help in the north in case of need. Finally, in terms of bases available, the enemy has also gained superiority in the last two years.

No wonder, then, that the stats of mind of the American commanders in the Far East is said to be "close to anguish," that this city is full of well authenticated reports of urgent requests to Washington from American headquarters here to do something to redress the Far Eastern power balance. The existing military balance in fact makes the island chain strategy unreliable. How the political balance is likely to make this strategy positively mythical must be the subject of a further report.

On the Edge of Extinction

Exchange

BY now the first of the world's few remaining whooping cranes will be approaching their summer nesting grounds in Canada's far north. The birds left their Texas sanctuary in early April. Five were positively identified near Regina on April 14 and an unconfirmed sighting of three more has been reported from western Manitoba.

Last year the known crane population went down by three. Where 24 of the big birds flew north in 1954, only 21 made the long flight south in the fall from the Arctic to their wintering grounds on the Gulf of Mexico; and none of these was a young bird. It is feared that many of the cranes left today may be too old for breeding. For that reason their return south next fall will be watched with even greater interest than usual. If the group can increase its numbers this summer, there is still hope that the cranes can be saved from extinction. If their number decreases again, however, it would seem that they must share the fate of the passenger pigeon and the Eskimo curlew.

Sunrise and Sunset

She came upon me while I yet was sleeping;
Into my presence softly she came creeping,
Shy maid, the dawn,
Who hides her face in rosy lace,
And quickly gone,
For no one has her heart in his keeping.
Now I behold the golden sun's last beaming,
And stand I in the twilight hour of dreaming;
As if to flaunt me,
I've searched the shade and forest glade,
And still to taunt me,
Far in the west her crimson veils are streaming.

Beauty and the Beast

I DON'T think I'll write a proper column today. My mind isn't on it.

My mind is on a lovely, grassy-track beside a river.

On my right is the fresh green of willows growing on the gravelly bar beneath the rocky bank. In January the river was tearing and plucking at their roots. But they've survived, though they lean a little, looking down the stream.

The stones beneath them are dry now and filmed with greyish silt and mud. A few salmon skeletons lie upon the stones, but they are fresh and sweet. All the December stench of rotting flesh has gone.

Ruth

No gulls come this way these days. Instead, swallows skim above the water. Swooping, darting, they are never still, and the eye grows dizzy watching them.

On my left are cottonwoods with fresh young leaves of greenish gold.

Easter lilies grow among them, and farther back, where the ground is soft and damp, and the shade is deeper, are trilliums with their large, net-veined leaves.

For some Vancouver Islanders, no spring can match the English spring of primrose scent and bluebells growing in the tidy, park-like woods.

But for me, a westerner, spring is a wilder, more tangled time of dogwood, Easter lilies, trilliums, lady slippers, the pale green flowers of maples and the heavenly scent of Balm of Gilead in April sunshine after a sudden shower of rain.

Snow may lie still upon the higher wooded hills, and logging trucks are caked with mud as they thunder across the bridge with their loads of Douglas fir.

But here, by the river, it's green and gentle spring.

It's a beautiful place. But it won't stay beautiful.

It's too close to the new highway. Already, the city dwellers are beginning to despoil it.

That's right, you greedy oaf, pick the lilies by the hundred. Yank the leaves up, too, and see that the stems have plenty of white upon them. That way you can be sure of killing off the bulb that takes seven years to grow from seed to flowering point.

Get masses of trilliums, too. And then throw them on the ground when you see how quickly they begin to droop and wilt.

Leave your picnic papers and cardboard plates upon the grass. Smash those bottles on a handy rock.

The land is yours, won by pioneers who knew beauty when they saw it. But it's only yours for a little while. When you die it will go to people yet unborn.

For you are only temporary custodian of this precious bit of land. Or hasn't that struck you? Are you the kind that can't envision anything but the here-and-now?

Cousin of the road-hog, the drunken driver, and the spitter-on-the-street, you're not fit for the country.

And yet, for your sake and for your children's children, a few far-sighted citizens are trying to preserve places of beauty and of peace. Your descendants may need them if this province prospers and becomes industrialized.

And I suppose the answer lies in education. But education is so slow.

The way I feel right now, after a recent wander by the river, I'd like to rush out and bash a few of these desecrators on the head.

Brother, I'd enjoy it!

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Thrilled by Canada

LONDON—I had two things lined up for this morning, both of them called for 10.30. One was to report for jury duty at the Old Bailey. The other was to sit in with Nicholas (The Cruel Sea) Monsarrat at a preview of the new film based on one of his works—The Ship That Died of Shame.

Reyburn

I chose since, after all, it is a summons and not merely an invitation. The last sentence of the summons read: "Whereof, fail not, as you will answer the contrary at your peril."

As things turned out I wasn't required for anything at the Old Bailey today (they told me to come back next week), so I was able to jump into a taxi and cut across town to Leicester Square to catch the last half hour of The Ship That Died of Shame.

You may have read the story in Saturday Evening Post. It was a long-short story (25,000 words) commissioned from Monsarrat by them a few years back. I'd heard it in a radio version and found it very moving but I'll reserve judgment on the film until I've seen it in full.

After the screening there was a reception for Monsarrat and I had a chat with him. You know, I'm sure, that he is now head of British Information Service in Ottawa and has been over here on a three-week trip which (sadly for his publicity) coincided exactly with the newspaper strike.

How does he like Canada? He loves it there. He was thrilled by that coast-to-coast motor trip he took recently, his report of which ran as a series in The Victoria Times. It's coming out in book form shortly.

What's he working on now? He has done 200,000 words on a new novel that isn't nearly finished yet. It will be much longer than The Cruel Sea and I had the feeling, as I was talking to him, that he hoped it would be the work by which he would be judged, his magnum opus. The theme? The black versus white question in Africa.

Has he abandoned sea stories? "I'm trying to swim out of the sea. I want to get onto broader topics."

How does he fit his novel writing in with his Ottawa chores? He does all his writing at night, setting himself a minimum of 500 words per night.

When did he do the research for his African book? On various visits there with his South African wife and during the time spent as British Information man there.

Anecdote about Johannesburg, which he paralleled to Toronto as a rich, go-ahead Commonwealth city. It appears a rich woman there was talking to a poor woman. "Right now we are terribly troubled by rats in our mansion," said she. "You must be troubled in the same way—with mice."

Johannesburg the same size as Toronto?

"No, Johannesburg is only 800,000 but I understand that Toronto now has a million. Of course, they've had to include quite a few fish in Lake Ontario, but they've got their million."

Is The Cruel Sea still going strong? Almost three million copies sold to date and still no falling off in sales. The eighteenth translation just published (Icelandic). "There is a new school version out. Full of questions in the back. Like 'Describe the Battle of the Atlantic in three words'."

What did he think of the film of it? "I've seen it 12 times so far and get something new out of it each time. I'm quite a fan of that movie."

Anti-Black Senate Nears in S. Africa

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—The Nationalist government Wednesday night introduced a bill to dissolve and reconstitute South Africa's Senate with almost double its present membership; giving the government just over a two-thirds majority in any joint session of both Houses.

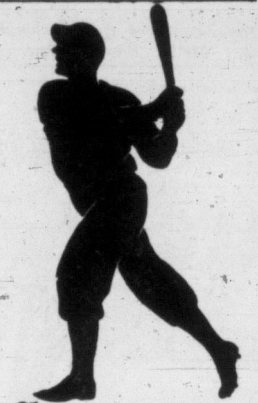

This new majority would enable a joint session of the Senate and House of Assembly to pass legislation taking colored voters of mixed race off the common electoral rolls.

The House of Assembly gave the government leave to introduce the bill by a vote of 82 to 53 after a three-hour debate in which the Nationalists were accused of trying to pack the Senate to get around the constitution.

Under the bill the Senate would have 89 members instead of the present 48.

The governor-general's appointments of senators are raised from eight to 16, and a new basis is introduced for election of senators by provinces. A majority vote would apply in provincial electoral colleges instead of proportional representation as at present.

Cape Province, the Transvaal, the Orange Free State will thereby return only government senators, since the Nationalist party controls these three of South Africa's four provinces.

MIGs CHASE U.S. PILOT ACROSS BALTIC SEA

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UP)—A U.S. air force pilot reported today that Communist jet fighter planes chased him across the Baltic Sea from Germany.

The pilot landed safely at Kastrup airport here after the incident.

He had flown from Wiesbaden, Germany, headquarters of the U.S. air force in Europe, in a T-33 training plane. A spokesman for the U.S. embassy here said there was no exchange of gunfire between the American and the Communist MIG fighters.

'Axis State' In Forestry, Says Logger

VANCOUVER (CP)—Russell Boyd, Minstrel Island logger, has likened the B.C. timber management license policy to an Axis corporate state.

Appearing for the small logger before Chief Justice Gordon Sloan's forest royal commission Wednesday, he said a management license in his area had created a "desperate" shortage of logging opportunities for independent operators.

"The chief forester looks forward to the day when every tree, regardless of ownership, and every man cutting one, will be under his control," Mr. Boyd said.

"In a broader field neither leader of the late Axis ever asked for more, and the corporate state is now a reality in the forest industry."

Mr. Boyd said the present procedure "in which the minister sits in judgment on his own decision is farce," and "timber and politics simply don't mix."

Ontario Candidates Go on TV

TORONTO (BUP)—Representatives of three major political parties have agreed to the use of free network radio and television time in the provincial election campaign, it was announced today by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

It will be the first time Canadian television has been used in a major political campaign.

Italy's Scelba Government Offers to Quit

ROME (UP)—Premier Mario Scelba submits the resignation of his middle-of-the-road government today to his bitter opponent, new President Giovanni Gronchi. In a formality that could turn into a political crisis, Most observers expected Gronchi to reject the resignation and thus avoid the crisis until after the important elections in Sicily June 5. But there was still no certainty of what will happen when Scelba drives to the Quirinale palace this evening to submit his resignation as a formality to the new president.

Gronchi can accept or reject the resignation of the 15-month-old coalition government. But it was generally believed he would not use this particular opportunity to make the "fresh start" which he called for Wednesday in his inaugural address. Scelba and Gronchi are both Christian Democrats but the premier bitterly fought the president's election 13 days ago.

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—The nation's top young farmers will gather here June 1-3 for the first annual outstanding young farmers award program. The program is co-sponsored nationally by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the American Petroleum Institute. Four winners will be announced at an awards banquet June 2.

Edmonton Chief Backs Mulligan On Addicts

'Isolate Them', Committee Told

OTTAWA (CP)—A special institution for the confinement of Canada's estimated 3,000 drug addicts again has been recommended to the Senate's special committee investigating the illegal drug traffic.

The proposal was made Wednesday night by Edmonton police chief M. F. E. Anthony, former assistant commissioner of the RCMP. A similar suggestion was made to the committee some weeks ago by Vancouver police chief Walter Mulligan, who proposed an island colony.

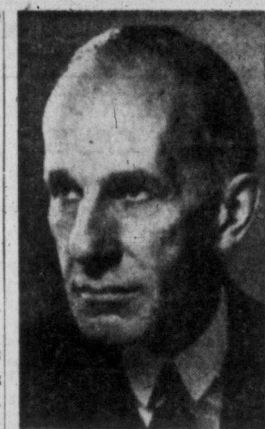

But chief Anthony said it should not be a home in which addicts could take a "rest cure." They should be put to work to help maintain themselves and should be released only under a strict parole that would continue until it was certain they were rehabilitated.

The veteran of 37 years' police work said: "If you're going to try to help these people you've got to be ruthless about it. The gloves have to come off if you're going to save them from themselves and save the waste to the country."

POPE SUFFERS SORE THROAT

VATICAN CITY (UP)—Pope Pius XII is suffering from a slight sore throat but it has not forced any curtailment of his activities, Vatican sources said today.

The sore throat appeared three days ago and continued in what Vatican quarters said was a "very mild" form today. They said there was no cause for concern.

7 INSTEAD OF PUFFING HE'S LICKING

Mother Weans 3-Year-Old Off Stogies

BETHALTO, Ill. (AP)—Earl E. Welton, the 3½-year-old cigar smoker, has sworn off.

Instead of a good five-cent cigar, he now reaches for a good five-cent ice cream cone.

Earl's mother, Mrs. Earl C. Welton, said Wednesday she began weaning Earl from cigars last week.

She said Earl hasn't "smoked for six days but he has eaten about 20 ice cream cones." Mrs. Era Weeks, an elementary teacher, is credited with having had a lot to do with Earl's swearing off. She told him he couldn't go to school if he smoked.

That bothered Earl, his mother says, because he spends a lot of time admiring older boys playing at recess on the school playground next to his home.

Mrs. Welton said she was deluded with letters demanding that she break him of the habit of smoking three cigars a day.

12 PHILPOTTS HONOR MAMA

Sprightly Ninety--- Still Going Strong

TORONTO (CP)—A sprightly old lady with a twinkle in her eye will sit down with her husband and her family today to celebrate her 90th birthday. Before her will be a birthday cake with the inscription: "Her children rise up and call her blessed," bespeaking the tributes of her 12 children.

The tributes will be from the family of Rev. and Mrs. Peter Wiley Philpott, one of the oldest and most distinguished Canadian couples who have devoted their lives to the church.

Eleven of the 12 children—authors, business men, social workers, professional men and one a member of Parliament—will join with the couple's 26 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren in a private birthday party. The 12th child, Dr. N. W. Philpott, professor of gynaecology at McGill University, Montreal, can't attend.

Each will make a speech, directed at both mother and father since Mr. Philpott will be 90 Nov. 25.

The Philpotts met while both were officers of the Salvation Army and were married in 1887. After their marriage the Philpotts went to Hamilton, where Mr. Philpott founded the Gospel Tabernacle, known now as the Philpott Tabernacle. They stayed 27 years, raising their family and building the church into a 1,200-member congregation.

The MP in the family is Elmore Philpott, newspaper columnist and Liberal member for Vancouver South.

Steelworkers Will Demand Whopping Raise

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Possibly the highest wage demand ever made in the history of the CIO United Steelworkers today faced the nation's basic steel industries.

The industry, currently operating at near capacity, was asked to grant a "substantial" wage increase for some 600,000 by the USW now earning an average $2.23 an hour.

USW President David J. McDonald indicated demands adopted by the union's wage-policy committee here Wednesday may exceed 18½ cents an hour.

'No Raiding Pact' Excludes Kitimat

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's giant Kitimat Aluminum smelter has been excluded from a no-raiding agreement signed in Toronto Wednesday by Canada's 70,000-member United Steelworkers of America CIO-CLC.

The agreement is a preliminary step towards unification of the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress.

The multi-million dollar Aluminum Company of Canada industrial development at Kitimat, 400 miles northwest of here, is the scene of a bitter jurisdictional battle between the steelworkers and 10 unions affiliated with the TLM and American Federation of Labor. The steelworkers are trying to wrest bargaining rights for 1,200 maintenance and production workers away from the AFL's Allied Aluminum Workers Council.

A year-long campaign by the steelworkers reached a climax last week when the union applied to the B.C. Labor Relations Board for a certification vote to determine which union the Kitimat workers want to represent.

"In view of this application for certification, Kitimat could not be included in the no-raiding pact," an official of the steelworkers union said here Wednesday.

Modern 12-Volt electrical system

This 12-volt system, with its hotter, faster spark, is exclusive with Chevrolet in the low-priced three — and no engine can operate at peak efficiency without it. It gives faster, surer starts on cold mornings, faultless performance at high speeds, and provides an ample reserve to meet the needs of all today's power features.

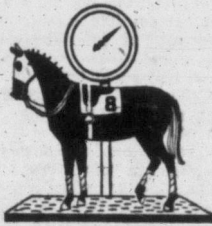

Controlled full-pressure lubrication

Controlled full-pressure lubrication results in greater oil economy and in finer engine protection. This new system uses nearly a quart less oil than the old splash-type systems. And under pressure, the oil is forced to every working part of the engine, protecting them completely with a slippery, non-wearing surface.

Better all-'round performance

Chevrolet's "Turbo-Fire" V8 was planned from the very first to make use of all the knowledge which General Motors has gathered through the years in making unbeatable V8's on higher-priced cars. That's why Chevrolet's V8 has these, and many other top quality features, which set it in a performance class unrivalled by comparable makes.

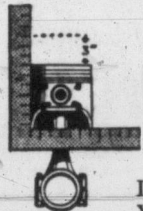

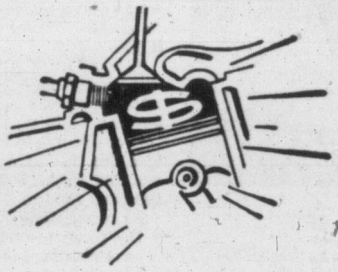

Highest horsepower per pound

Chevrolet's "Turbo-Fire" V8 is the lightest engine in the "low-priced three". Thorough engineering has eliminated all the dead-weight and unnecessary bulk — both factors which drain the rated horsepower of engines in comparable makes. "Turbo-Fire" weighs only 488 lbs. Compare that with the engines of other cars!

High compression economy

Chevrolet V8 has a compression ratio that is unsurpassed anywhere in its field. In fact, its compression ratio of 8 to 1 puts the "Turbo-Fire" V8 in the performance class of high priced cars. You can feel the result the instant you put your foot down on the accelerator. And, of course, high compression means high economy. Yes, Chevrolet the valve-in-head leader, gives tremendous response and power with exceptional economy — a combination that's unbeatable in any car, in any price class.

New, shorter piston stroke

In Chevrolet's "Turbo-Fire" V8 the piston moves only three inches. This greatly reduces cylinder wall friction, generates less heat and makes possible the more compact, lighter-weight engine design.

Saves 1 mile of engine wear in 12

Here is another marvellous result of Chevrolet's amazing new piston stroke. Because the piston moves a shorter distance, it actually saves 1 mile of engine wear for every 12 you travel. This also puts lighter loads on the bearings — another reason for "Turbo-Fire's" great new, all-round engine durability.

Injured? No, Just Kinda Tired

Chunky Geordy Johnston stellar goalie of the Victoria Shamrocks, takes up plenty of room in his crease. But things really got crowded Wednesday night when 220-pound Cy Anderson of Mount Pleasant Indians took a header and moved right in with Johnston during the first game of the 1955 home Intercity Lacrosse League season. Bending over the prostrate Anderson with great concern are Harry Irwin and Johnston, at left, and Whitey Severson, Larry Booth and Indians' Larry Crema at right. But Anderson wasn't lying down long enough. He scored two goals and an assist as Indians upset Rocks, 9-7.

Irish 'Bang' All Right But Not in Usual Tones

Indians Surprise Rocks In Boxla Season Opener

Indians 9, Shamrocks 7
By DENNY BOYD

The traditional bang with which the Victoria Shamrocks have been opening their Intercity Lacrosse League seasons these many years, turned into a soggy thud at Memorial Arena Wednesday night.

Cockey as only a defending champion can be, the Rocks bit into more Mount Pleasant Indian team than they could chew and came away smarting from a 9-7 defeat. Jake Proctor's Indians just walked all over our Irish.

And when it was over, the regal robes the Shamrocks wear as the royalty of western lacrosse hung in tatters of sackcloth. Rock coach Red McMillan was saying his club deserved to be beaten and a young kid in the Indian dressing room was having his cheek tweaked by his joyous team-mates.

It was no fluke, Indians setting Rocks down in the first game of the season for both teams. The Rocks didn't play like defending champions until the last two minutes of the game; by then it was too late. And if there was one Indian who stuck the knife in the Shamrock hides deeper than the others, it was Keith Johnston who twisted it.

For a couple of years, Johnston has sat on the Indian bench, as understudy to the great Stan Joseph. But Stan missed the plane Wednesday night and coach Jake Proctor gave the nod to Johnston as starting goalie. Johnston was slightly phenomenal, stopping a total of 28 shots, and he saved his best antics for the last quarter when the Rocks made an abortive attempt to live up to their reputations.

Red Rather Miffed With His Lads

Tonight the Irish Face Art Pruden's New Westminster Salmonbellies at the Royal City. Coach Red McMillan is not planning any line-up changes but he will have a few things to say to his club before the game.

After Wednesday's game McMillan said: "We didn't do one thing tonight to deserve to win. I knew we would lose as I came in the dressing room. Maybe we did hit the post six times but that's no excuse. I just didn't like my team—the way they played out there tonight."

Old Mario Crema, plodding with a will on ancient legs, got the end of his stick to Cy Anderson's long shot and deflected it past Geordy Johnston for Indians' first goal at 1:05. But Bob Dobbie, the newest of the Shamrocks, took advantage of an Indian penalty to bounce-shot a goal past Johnston, tying it.

Jack Blonda's bounce shot and Anderson's shoulder-high whistler left the clubs tied 2-2 at the end of the first quarter and they were tied 4-4 at the half. Bill Bamford and Dobbie scoring for Shamrocks and Anderson and Larry Crema for Indians.

The third quarter was a bad dream for the Rocks as they got only five shots and nary a goal while Indians pumped in three more for a 7-4 edge.

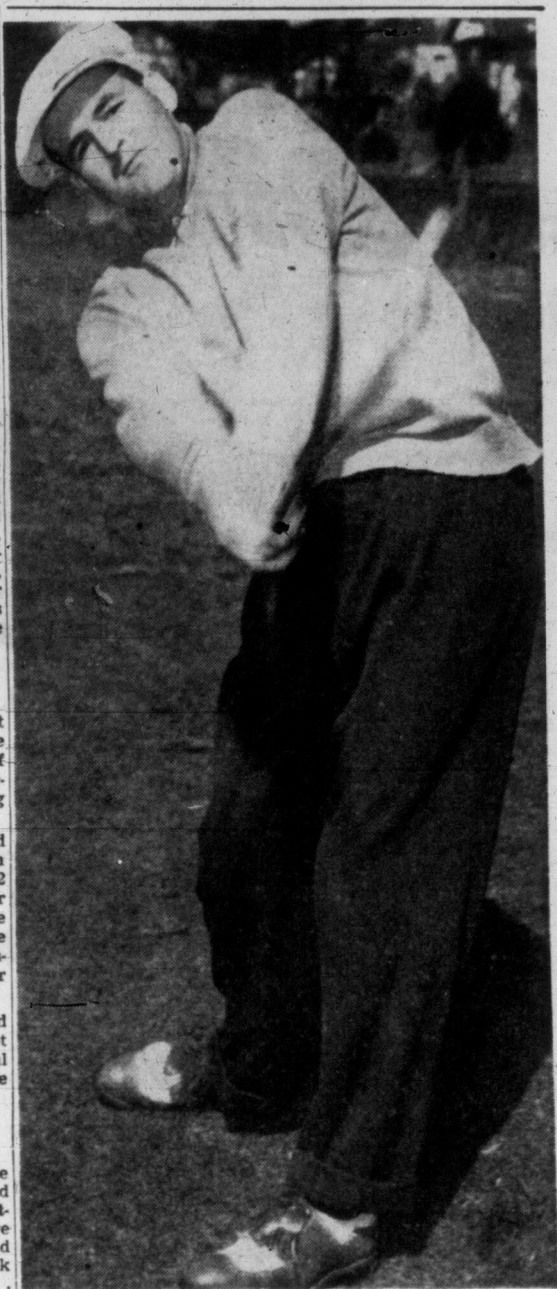

Peewee Broke Lengthy Drought

Hustling Peewee Bradshaw, probably the best player on the floor for the Rocks, scored at 13:20 for the Irish to break a goal-less famine lasting 28 minutes 39 seconds.

That goal put the Irish within striking distance and when Blonda fired another bounce shot past Keith Johnston at 14:17, Rock fans were on their feet, looking for a rally. Alas, it was not to be and Indians succeeded in running out the clock.

Johnston protected Indians' lead in the last heat when the Rocks turned on the coal. He made two burglaries off Harry Irwin and somehow got his stick on a point-blank shot by Bradshaw.

Gloves Too Big, Ring Too Small for Cockell

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

A fellow who "feels at home in a bowling alley just as much as he does at home," left town Wednesday, for Toronto and a particular point slightly west of south of the Ontario metropolis.

Andy Palmer, king of the tenpinners and the daddy of most of them hereabouts, competes this week-end in the Canadian tenpin bowling championships. The prize is a seeding in the Masters' Tournament of the American Bowling Congress at Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Four divisional champions across the Dominion will contest the berth that earns with it a special place in the annals of bowling. Only 64 spots are open. To the Canadian champion goes one of them; to the second best a further chance in a preliminary qualifying round.

So much for the mechanics of the piece—the world series of the sport, so to speak—Palmer looks at it this way:

"It's do or don't for me this year," he says of "a little over 30 years of bowling."

"I'm really looking forward to it, and my ball is working better now than it has been for some time."

As proof Andy racked up a five-game average of 208 pins last week at Stratheona. Two weeks previously he hit for a 198 average at Gibson's. In the B.C. playdowns, which he won handily, his 24-game average was 185.

Stick to the Business at Hand

Andy has always eyed the ABC of the acme of his aims. He's deadly serious about it and explains it simply:

"As long as you remember where you are and what you're there for, there shouldn't be too much trouble; and I don't think I scare easily."

No-one should doubt that last remark. Least of all the competitors in a tournament at Regina some years ago. That's when Andy hit his peak for tournament play. When the pins had stopped toppling nine games after the start, Andy sat back and had every right to view his 2,025 pin total with pride. He had averaged 225 pins for the effort.

Andy'll take the "big" games with the lesser ones, but mainly he'll rely on a steady performance to see him through. "Picking up spares" is still the secret of the game, as always. "I'm not missing them now, like I was in the B.C. tournament," he admits.

Pins Don't Move; Now Do They?

Neither was Andy missing many in the ABC tournament at Seattle last year, his first ABC competition. And maybe a 623 total doesn't sound like much on the surface, but that was good enough for a $38 cheque, a few dollars more than a couple of thousand other fellows got.

"I should do better than that," he says. "If I can keep remembering it's just another game."

And now as Andy awaits the big test, it's 20 "other" games for him in Toronto this week-end in the Canadian title meet and a chance for the Masters, the elite grading of the sport.

And somehow, we kinda feel that Victoria's hopes for a Canadian championship are in good hands.

Or as Andy says: "The pins are always in the same place at the end of the alley."

Aussies in Cricket Win

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters)—An innings of 78 by left-hander Arthur Morris helped the Australian cricketers gain victory by three wickets over Barbados on the last day of the four-day match here.

The final score was Barbados 305 and 230, Australians 332 and 204 for 7 wickets.

SAN RAFAEL, Calif.

(UP)—Don Cockell, British challenger for the world heavyweight title, quietly resumed sparring today while his camp protested that the gloves were too big and the ring too small for Monday night's championship fight with Rocky Marciano.

Manager John Simpson Wednesday wired the state athletic commission that the 16½-foot ring, which will be in use at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium, would be a "tremendous handicap" to his boxer.

"We were promised a 20-foot ring and we get a 16-footer," Simpson said. "We also were promised we would use six-ounce gloves and we have to use eight-ounce."

Jimmy Murray, who is co-promoting the bout with the IBC, said no promise had been made about the 20-foot ring which is located in the San Francisco Civic Auditorium.

Simpson also said they had been "promised" six-ounce gloves for the fight and that he also would take this matter up when he meets with the state athletic commission tomorrow.

It is California law that eight-ounce gloves be used in all championship fights.

BOTH AGREE

However, the glove protest gave Simpson and manager Al Weil something in common. Marciano's pilot wants to use six-ounce gloves, too.

Marciano will try to stop Cockell with a crushing body attack Monday night, just as he ruined Rex Layne in his first major victory back in July, 1951. That became apparent today at the peak of the champion's training because of his awesome concentration on the bodies of his sparmates. Rocky pursued the same tactics in the final stages of his training for the highly-favored Layne in '51.

Layne, somewhat chunky like England's Cockell, suffered a terrific body beating that left him helpless and ready for finishing head hooks in the sixth round.

The body attack Rocky is perfecting at Calistoga, Calif., features a "slide" under Cockell's left jab and a right smash to the heart, then a series of left-right hooks to the challenger's blueberry midriff.

Major League Axe Hurts; Slaughter, Sain to K.C.

By UNITED PRESS

The axe swung throughout the big leagues—and it hit a lot of guys hard.

Enos Slaughter, dealt to Kansas City by the Yankees, swallowed a lump in his throat and mumbled, "I never had much of a chance."

Southpaw Hal Newhouser, released outright by Cleveland, tried to take the blows nonchalantly but didn't quite make it as he said, "I know I can still help some club."

Catcher Mickey Grasso, handed his release by the Giants, didn't know where to turn. "This is the first time I've ever been released in my life," he said.

And Don Larsen, the strong, young right-hander with the 20-game potential whom the Yanks optioned to Denver of the American Association, sat coldly in front of his locker.

"Do you think I'll ever come back?" he inquired, looking out into space and smoking a cigaret nervously.

All this took place Wednesday when the clubs feverishly pared their rosters to get down to the required 25-player limit by midnight.

"I hate to send anyone out," Yankee manager Casey Stengel said frowning. "It's tough on everyone concerned."

Stengel made his remarks after dealing Slaughter and pitcher Johnny Sain to Kansas City for cash and pitcher Sonny Dixon, who immediately was sent outright to Denver; optioning Larsen to Denver and selling southpaw Art Schallack to the Baltimore Orioles.

"Maybe," Sain said, cleaning out his locker, "a change might work out for the best. But you always hate to leave. I remember the first game I won for this club. It was against the Athletics in 1951. I got as big a thrill out of it as if I had been a rookie."

Slaughter tried to whistle at his locker, "a change might work out for the best. But you always hate to leave. I remember the first game I won for this club. It was against the Athletics in 1951. I got as big a thrill out of it as if I had been a rookie."

Famed English Cricketer Dies

DORCHESTER, England (Reuters)—Gilbert L. Jessop, famous former English cricketer, died at nearby Fordington rectory, Wednesday. He would have been 81 next week.

Jessop, captain of Gloucestershire for many years early in the century, was known as "the Croucher" because of his stance at the wicket.

One of the game's biggest hitters, his name was a byword with cricket fans. It used to be said that when word got around Bristol's business district that Jessop was due at the wicket, workers left their jobs in a hurry to see the great slugger. He frequently scored at the rate of more than a run a minute.

AMSTERDAM (Reuters)—Chelsea, the English league football champions, drew 2-2 with a Dutch national eleven here Wednesday night. The London club led 2-1 at halftime, but the Dutch equalized with a second-half penalty.

CHICAGO (CP)—Archie McBride, a methodical puncher from Trenton, N.J., thumped out a split 10-round decision over hard-swinging but inaccurate Bob Satterfield of Chicago in a televised heavyweight bout Wednesday at Chicago Stadium. McBride weighed 185, Satterfield 181.
--

DORCHESTER, England (Reuters)—Gilbert L. Jessop, famous former English cricketer, died at nearby Fordington rectory, Wednesday. He would have been 81 next week.
--

Jessop, captain of Gloucestershire for many years early in the century, was known as "the Croucher" because of his stance at the wicket.
--

One of the game's biggest hitters, his name was a byword with cricket fans. It used to be said that when word got around Bristol's business district that Jessop was due at the wicket, workers left their jobs in a hurry to see the great slugger. He frequently scored at the rate of more than a run a minute.

Newsman Tattling on Duke Rebuked By U.K. Colleagues

LONDON (CP) — The Press Council has rebuked two British newspaper men for publishing portions of a crossed-wires telephone conversation between a representative of the Duke of Edinburgh and Canada House.

The council, watchdog of British newspaper ethics, says "it deplores eavesdropping of this kind and considers that it is detrimental to those standards of journalism which it exists to protect."

The statement refers to an incident last year when Tom Driberg, Socialist member of Parliament in the last House and a columnist for Reynolds News, a Sunday newspaper, accidentally dialled a telephone defect into the Canada House-Buckingham Palace conversation. He reported some of the conversation in his column.

The duke's representative was asking for Canadian air transport information for a speech the duke was delivering.

SAYS PLAINT FRIVOLOUS

Driberg, a free-lance journalist who is not standing for Parliament again, told the Press Council that the complaint "seemed to him so utterly trivial as to be in effect frivolous." He had, he said, written the story to register a protest against a defect in the telephone system. His editor, W. R. Richardson, backed him up.

UBC Players Meet Challenge Of Adjudicator

Drama Festival In Third Day

REGINA (BUP)—Finnish adjudicator Mrs. Grede Wrede was hard pressed Wednesday night to find fault with the presentation of the University of British Columbia Players Club alumni at the dominion drama festival.

The British Columbia group presented Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," dealing with witch trials in Salem, Mass., in 1692.

Mrs. Wrede had said Tuesday evening that any future plays would have to be of exceptionally high standard to compare with the work of the Toronto Playcraftsmen.

"I am happy to say that the UBC players accepted the challenge and picked up the glove," she said.

MOVING PLAY

The adjudicator said the play had tremendously moved and touched the audience and was a warning to all that not so long ago narrow mindedness and cruelty had affected the whole world.

The direction of the play by Dorothy Davies was of exceptional help to the cast, the lighting was skilfully used and a strong atmosphere was created before the curtain went up by the use of drums, she said.

TEAMWORK

The cast was complimented for its teamwork and Mrs. Wrede said the players' movements were good and appeared to be motivated by inner feeling.

The Winnipeg Little Theatre will present "I Remember Mama" tonight. Wednesday's matinee was Lennox Robinson's "The White Haired Boy," performed by the North Cliff Dramatic Club of Grand Falls, Nfld.

'FESTIVAL OF HUSBAND WORSHIP'

Hindu Wives Wash Feet Of Men, Drink the Water

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—A hundred Hindu wives Wednesday washed their husbands' feet, then drank the dirty water, to the indignation of feminist elements who decry the current five-day festival of husband-worship.

The wives acclaimed their husbands as gods, in accordance with ancient rituals, at the festival which now is in its third day at Lucknow. The proceedings started in a closed, guarded tent on the banks of the holy River Gomti.

But the occasion is drawing heated opposition from feminist leaders and rival holy groups who are against "collective husband worship."

One newspaper quoted the principal of a women's college, who referred to last week's new law providing for payment of alimony by divorced wives as well as husbands. She said: "As if alimony from wives is not enough, they want us to wash their feet and drink the dirty water, too."

The festival of homage is organized by Sheshaji Maharaj, a Hindu divine, who claims "this purification rite will end divorce."

The opponents of husband-

CRACKPOT?

Semenick Prosecutor Threatened

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wilfred J. Heffernan, crown prosecutor who had William Semenick sentenced to 10 years in prison on a charge of drug trafficking, said Wednesday his life has been threatened.

Mr. Heffernan said a man phoned his wife April 27 and said a dynamite bomb would be placed in his car.

City police and RCMP placed a special guard around the Heffernan home following the threat.

"I feel it was just the work of a crank who saw my name in the papers," Mr. Heffernan said Wednesday. "But police took precautions just in case."

Word of the threatening phone call was kept secret by police until Wednesday.

The phone call came only a day after two shots were fired at constable Joe Haywood, star witness in the Semenick hearing.

Tongue-Twisted Twins Get Taximan in Tizzy

QUEBEC (CP)—Pierre and Raymond Marie Blouin, a pair of stuttering twins who find sign language more convenient than talking, were acquitted Wednesday of attempted robbery.

Their wild gesticulations had frightened a taxi-driver into thinking they'd told him to drive them to the scene of a holdup.

The 25-year-old brothers explained to session court judge Alphonse Garon that they stutter so badly it's easier for them to talk to each other in sign language. On the night they hailed the taxi, some two weeks ago, they'd both been drinking and their gestures were abnormally wild, they said.

When they saw that the driver was frightened, one told him reassuringly that they were not the type to commit holdups.

At this the driver snatched the keys from his car and fled. He told police he thought the pair were armed and had told him they were going to hold up a grocery store.

Equalization Program Draws New Protests

VANCOUVER (CP)—Cities and municipalities throughout B.C. are protesting the provincial government's assessment equalization program.

Complaints have mounted following resignation of Don McQueen, Vancouver assessment commissioner as chairman of the government's advisory committee on assessment equalization.

"I think it has been shoved through very quickly, and on a very flimsy foundation," commented West Vancouver assessor James Gardner.

"It appears to us they've made up their mind on money matters first. Now they're going to make it work and if that requires getting 20 per cent more from some municipalities they are going to get it."

Jim Markle, city assessor at Kelowna, said some of the figures turned in for his city by the provincial assessors were ridiculous.

"The average laymen could tell they were wrong just by comparison," Delta municipal assessor Cyril Barnes said. "We haven't got equalization at all, what we have is dictatorship."

The assessor for Penticton, Syd Cornock, said "We all want equalization, but the same issue of using untrained men by the province has occurred."

Only West Vancouver and Vancouver appealed the government's order on equalization.

However, the B.C. Assessors Association made a vigorous protest to the government with many of the cities in the province including their objections at the same time.

KITCHENER KEFUZZLE

Which Kaiser Got All Wet When Bust Tossed in Pond?

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—A German kaiser's statue was tossed into Victoria Park pool as a patriotic gesture during the First World War. Now residents are trying to figure out which kaiser it portrayed.

The question is whether it was Wilhelm I or his grandson, Wilhelm II, the German ruler during the 1914-15 conflict.

Return of the statue, a bust, was urged by a former Kitchener resident, Rev. Earl Lautenslager of Sudbury, last Friday at the centennial celebration of Kitchener-Waterloo collegiate.

Dr. Lautenslager urged Kitchener residents to put more stress on their Germanic background.

Many residents said they always thought the bust was that of the Wilhelm II. However, Professor Alex O. Potter, retired Waterloo College history professor and an authority on Kitchener history, said the statue was that of Wilhelm I.

In any event, the bust is gone forever.

An old-time Kitchener militia man, who declined use of his name, said the bust was fished out of the pond and placed in a social club until local militia men, who had a soft spot in their hearts for "Old Bill," as they called him, removed it to their barracks.

"I locked up the bust in the detention room that night," the old-timer said, "and the next morning it had disappeared."

Two-Day Show At Riding Club Set Once More

Ever-increasing interest in the horse show staged each year in connection with this city's Victoria Day observance, has again made it necessary for the Victoria Riding Club to plan a two-day program.

Children's events will be presented Saturday, May 21, while adults will have their show Monday, May 23.

This is similar to the arrangement made last year which proved successful.

Those in charge of planning expect nearly 100 youngsters to participate in the Saturday program and anticipate about 75 adults will enter Monday competitions. Horses and riders are expected from many up-Island points as well as Vancouver and Seattle.

Horses will be given a featured place in the big street parade, planned for the morning of the 23rd. The King County sheriff's posse from Seattle will take part.

This coming Sunday, May 15, the Garden City Horsemen's Club will stage an afternoon gymkhana at Jack Simpson's property, Blenkinsop Road, near Royal Oak Avenue. The program will start at 1.30. Many of the participants will put their horses through some of the tests for the May 23 show.

Bazaar Nets School $588

GLEN LAKE—Net proceeds from the Belmont High School bazaar held in April totalled $588.81, it was reported at the regular meeting of the Belmont Parent-Staff Council executive.

A record player purchased by the group is in use at the school.

Final arrangements for the Grade 12 banquet May 20 were made. A program of dancing and games will follow the business session at the next meeting of the council May 30.

7-Man Editorial Board Selected For B.C.'s 100th Birthday Book

A seven-man editorial board has been chosen to compile a 700-page book marking the founding of B.C. as a colony which will be published in the centennial year, 1958.

Editor T. K. Willis said Wednesday the board will consist of Times publisher Stuart Keate, Times editor Bruce Hutchison, Sun and Province columnists Barry Mather and Eric Nichol, columnist publisher Seth Halton, provincial archivist Willard Ireland, and author Roderick Haig-Brown.

Sub-editors were Mary Carr-Wright, M. Eugene Perry, Margaret Steer and Georgina Luske. Accountant is Walter Steer.

The book will be an anthology of fiction, poetry and art, with a B.C. setting, and, said Mr. Willis, a fair amount of material has been received to date. Manuscripts from persons who have good historical material will be re-written in a professional manner. They should be sent to Box 1026, Victoria. Publishers will be McClelland and Stewart.

Distillers Seagrums Buck Down Trend at Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A weak rally in some industrial issues recovered a few of the losses at Toronto today but the market generally was at a lower level.

A standout gainer was Distillers Seagrums up 2%. Base metals, western oils and golds tended downwards throughout the day though there were a few scattered gains especially in the gold group.

Trading was at a slow pace all day with a final volume of 5,149,000 shares slightly higher than yesterday's 5,140,000.

Trans Mountain Line To Have New Feeder

A new 106-mile oil pipe line is to be constructed from the northwest section of Alberta to link up with the Trans Mountain line at Edson, west of Edmonton, J. Grant Spratt president of Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company has announced.

The line is to be built by Peace River Oil Pipe Line Co., under supervision of Canadian Gulf Pipe Line Co. Ltd.

Designed to provide an outlet for oil fields in the Sturgeon Lake area, the line will have an initial throughput of 10,000 barrels a day and will be capable of taking up to 40,000 barrels a day.

Mr. Spratt says it is "too early" to say if the new line will increase Trans Mountain's throughput to Vancouver.

The new Barclays Bank at 717 Fort Street has instituted a free, off-street parking service for its customers.

Manager Eric W. Hall has reserved a section of Sylvester's parking lot at the rear of the bank, where customers may park for half an hour.

Three Victoria names are listed among engineers recently registered as members of the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. The three: H. L. Briggs, general manager and chief engineer of B.C. Power Commission; A. R. D. Robertson, hydraulic engineer, water rights branch, provincial government, and D. G. Sutherland, mechanical engineer, 3600 Quadra Street.

Vancouver's new Granville Street bridge has put one of British Columbia's largest lumber supply firms out of business.

Albion Lumber and Millwork Co. Ltd., retail and wholesale lumber firm, has closed out after 18 years.

Company vice-president Clarke W. Markle says the bridge is responsible.

Much of Albion's property was expropriated to build the new bridge. A new site close by was found to be unsatisfactory.

IN VICTORIA, IT'S THE BAY WHERE A SALE REALLY MEANS EXTRA VALUE!

Emily Carr: 'Added Extra Lustre to Beautiful City of Victoria'

An eccentric little genius of painting and writing was honored here under spitting skies Wednesday when a simple bronze plaque was unveiled to the memory of Emily Carr.

In front of the modest frame house where she was born on Government Street, gathered more than 250 friends of the late Miss Carr and lovers of her paintings. The plaque is just two houses from the corner of Government and Simcoe.

It was dedicated by Dr. Ira Dilworth, former Victoria High School principal and UBC professor, now an executive of the CBC in Toronto, who paid high tribute to the Victoria artist whom he knew personally.

...Honoring An Immortal of Canada

Dr. Walter Sage, Vancouver, representative on the Canadian government's Historic Sites and Monuments board which erected the plaque, said "immortality takes many forms, and today we are honoring an immortal of Canada."

He read a letter from Vancouver artist Dr. Lawrence Harris, who helped Miss Carr in her work, quoting "she is one of the world's greatest artists."

Mayor Claude Harrison, who accepted the plaque on behalf of the city, said Miss Carr's difficulties in getting her works recognized "was a good lesson to us not to decry... or criticize, until we know."

Miss Carr died March 2, 1945. Among spectators at the brief but impressive ceremony were many who knew her well.

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant represented the government.

The full text of Dr. Dilworth's tribute follows:

Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, you have done me a great honor in inviting me to present this afternoon and unveil a plaque to the memory of Emily Carr. This is for me an occasion of unusual interest and excitement. I congratulate the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada on erecting this memorial in the tenth year after Miss Carr's death.

It is an honor which in this country might so easily have been delayed but which assuredly comes none too soon.

As I stand here on a spot which I have passed literally thousands of times, I find myself deeply moved and the most I can do is to pay my personal tribute to Emily Carr as I knew her, as a woman, writer and painter.

It was in this house behind us that Emily Carr was born. My first memories of it go back to 1909 when my family moved to live in Victoria just half a block away from this spot.

The house was then set in a deep garden, a garden bounded on Government Street by a great grove of Lombard poplar trees, the space between the trees filled to overflowing with snowball, laburnum and rich lilac. These shrubs in the month of May in those years sent great cascades of color and fragrance from the garden into the street.

Along Simcoe Street the garden was bounded by a high hedge of white hawthorn.

The garden itself was characteristically Victorian and very English. As Emily herself said, her father, having left England behind, planted his loneliness in the soil of his new home and "it came up all English."

This plot of ground may be proud of its memories.

It was here that Emily, whose sisters called her "Small," played. Behind the house were the vegetable gardens and the hay field centred around what Emily used to call the cow yard. There the small child made friends with the barnyard animals and birds.

In the cow yard stood the old barn with its wide house and its loft which was Emily's first studio.

Behind all this, running up towards Beacon Hill, were grass fields and meadows in which grew the flowers that Emily loved so much, particularly the wild lilies.

Emily Carr spent practically her whole life within little more than a stone's throw from this spot on which we are now standing.

Except for periods of training in San Francisco, England and Paris, and a short time spent in teaching in Vancouver, this district of Victoria was her home.

When death had made inroad into the family, Emily decided to move out of the old house and built her own residence a block and a half from here up Simcoe Street, a house which she has described in "The House of All Sorts."

Raised Sheep Dogs

Its upper story was given over to a very fine studio. In the garden behind were kennels where she raised great quantities of sheep dogs.

When times became too difficult for her financially, Emily sold "the house of all sorts" and moved a few blocks south of this point to live in a tiny cottage on Beckley Street.

It was there, in a district which was distinctly "slummy," that she received Lady Tweedsmuir, wife of the governor-general, who had asked the privilege of seeing Emily and her paintings.

After illness laid its hand heavily upon her, Emily gave up Beckley Street and went to live in Alice's house, the small cottage where Alice lived and carried on her private school. You know it well—it lies just behind the old Carr house facing on St. Andrew's Street, its boulevards covered with cedar trees and surrounded by remnants of the old original Carr orchard.

Personal Aloofness

There Emily lived in a self-contained apartment, she and her sister meeting daily, concerned with each other's needs but each maintaining a personal aloofness which had no bitterness in it.

It was from that little cottage that Emily Carr set out one afternoon late in February, 1945, having confessed to feeling suddenly very tired, to go to the rest home which is just a block below us here on Government Street in the building which was formerly the James Bay Hotel.

There, a few days later, she died quietly and without fuss.

It is small wonder that, standing on this site today, those of us who knew Emily Carr are deeply moved and feel the presence of ghosts from the past. It was along these streets that we used to see her passing with her great group of sheep dogs bounding around her, with her beloved monkey, Woo, sometimes riding in a baby carriage, sometimes ambling along tugging at the end of her chain.

Dallas Inspiration

It was along the cliffs at Dallas Road just south of here that Emily used to go for her morning and evening walks to breathe in inspiration from the vast expanse of sea and sky with the mountains hazy or clear in the distance.

It was on Beacon Hill in this close vicinity—a Beacon Hill not then completely occupied by broom but lush and lovely with grass, deep with buttercups and camass—that Emily awaited so often the coming of the sun in the morning surrounded by her playing dogs.

It was in Alice's old cottage

DR. DILWORTH... none too soon or in "the house of all sorts" that many of us talked with Emily and found a woman touched with gaiety, sensitive, often depressed and lonely, but always dauntless in courage and determination.

Very simply, although we did not know it in those far-away years, Emily Carr was a genius, a genius in painting and in writing.

She had the simplicity and the direct drive which is characteristic of genius.

She was never lured away from one course which her task in life laid out in front of her.

Affectionate, Loyal

She could be difficult and often was, but she was tender, affectionate, loyal and above everything else, honest as the sun.

She had a very hard life filled with work and not a little worry, but we are all glad to know that before its end she achieved a kind of recognition of which she was very proud and which thrilled her deeply.

She has an unassailable place in the story of our culture.

She has added an extraordinary lustre to this beautiful city of Victoria.

It is, therefore, Mr. Chairman, with a deep sense of humility but with pride and profound satisfaction that I discharge my duty of unveiling this memorial plaque to Emily Carr.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

I am pleased to report Victoria's amateur ship identifiers are battling approximately 600, which is a solid average in any man's league.

In case you came in late, on Tuesday we ran a picture of a CPR Princess liner—either Princess Marguerite or Princess Patricia. Readers were asked to name the ship, and give their reasons for identifying her.

And, as noted above, about 60 per cent of the letters received to date have named the ship correctly.

Most of the correct answers also gave the correct reason (or reasons) for identifying the ship.

But if you are still puzzled about which Princess was in the picture, it might help you to read a few of the WRONG answers received.

Remember, none of the following is the correct answer.

"I would say Princess Patricia. How I know it, it is deeper in the water."

"I would say Princess Marguerite. How I know it, it is not so deep in water as Princess Patricia."

"It is the Princess Marguerite, as she has two whistles and there is only one on the Patricia."

"That is a picture of the Princess Patricia because of the cross trees on her forward mast. The Princess Marguerite hasn't any."

"The ship in your column is the Princess Pat, with her two funnels and slit shaped portholes. The Princess Marguerite has three funnels and round portholes."

"The difference (between the ships) is the Patricia has her forward superstructure closed in, the Marguerite is NOT closed in."

"My reason for thinking the ship is the Marguerite is because it has two glassed in lounges in the front end of bow, while I believe the Patricia has only one."

"The whistle on the Marguerite is mounted on the rear smoke stack while on the Patricia it is mounted on the front stack."

"I know the ship is the Princess Patricia, because of the spar near the top of the main mast."

"The difference is that the Princess Marguerite has three smoke stacks while the Patricia has only two."

"The name is the Princess Patricia. The way I can tell is that the Marguerite has only one stack, the one in the picture has two."

Those incorrect answers should be of some help. And for one more final clue before the truth is revealed (as it will be, on Saturday): the "H" in the clue "HWP" stands for "High."

Arena Floor Repair Work Approved

$20,000 to Come From Reserve Fund

A new $20,000 floor-reinforcing job for Victoria's city-owned Memorial Arena was almost assured today when city finance committee adopted a report by the city engineer's department which recommended the expenditure.

Friday the matter goes to council for final approval. It was indicated the item will be passed without protest.

Finance committee chairman, Ald. W. F. Pinfold said the committee recommendation will ask the council to release $20,000 from reserve funds held for the arena.

EARLY START

It was indicated Wednesday that the commission would order the work to start immediately. The job is planned so that lacrosse schedules will be uninterrupted.

The recommendation of public works head Cyril Jones and Vancouver consulting engineers, Swan, Wooster and Partners, is aimed at halting ice trouble caused by leaks in the floor freezing system, without the expense of a complete new floor. The latter job is estimated at up to $125,000.

Leaks occurred over recent years as ground sunk beneath the floor. Cracks developed in the cement and water created rusting of the criss-crossing pipes.

Officials feel some pipes will have to be replaced and think that a complete new floor will have to be built within a few years.

NOT ENOUGH

But the commission reserve totals only $45,000 and its borrowing power is limited to $25,000. If it asked the city to borrow for the complete renovation, interest costs in a few years would be greater than the cost of the work approved by committee today, said Ald. Pinfold.

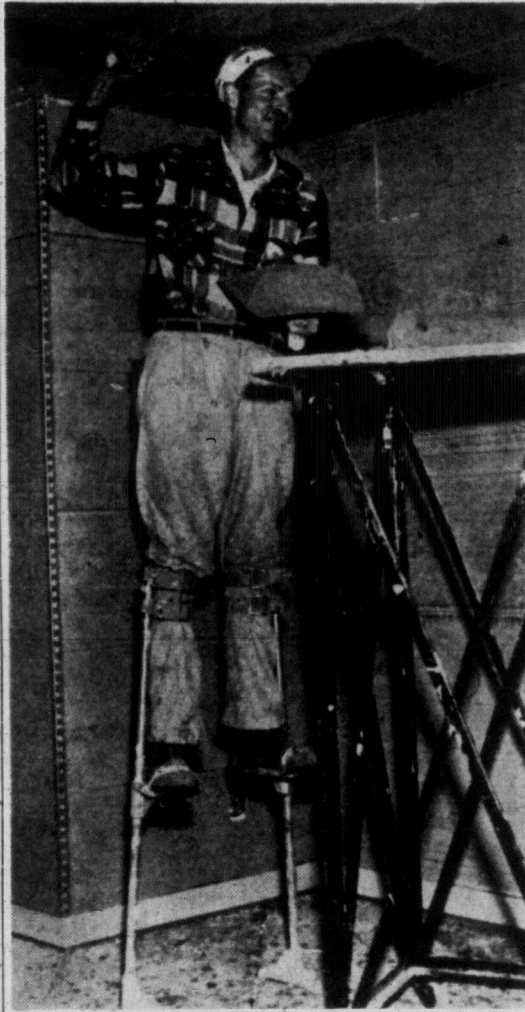

The reinforcement job will entail drilling holes in the present arena floor and forcing special non-contracting cement into the cavities. This will stop any future sag and resultant cracking of surface cement, according to the engineers.

Premier Indicates No Aid for Saanich

Saanich council will go home empty-handed from a meeting with the provincial cabinet Friday, Premier W. A. C. Bennett indicated today.

Council members will go to the Legislative Buildings in a last-ditch effort to procure tax relief from the provincial government, on Friday morning.

The premier reiterated the government's stand during a press conference this morning: Saanich can expect assistance if it can show the cabinet it is being discriminated against by the new school formula.

He said Saanich councillors must show the municipality has been "treated unfairly" or has not "been treated the same as all other municipalities."

Provincial government officials feel Saanich's dilemma, which has resulted in a 17 per cent tax increase, is the fault of the municipality.

"DAY OF RECKONING"

They claim Saanich under-assessed property in the past to lower the tax rate, as a method of attracting new housing de-

DRUG IMPAIRED DRIVING BRINGS FINE OF $250 IN SAANICH COURT

Charge of driving while his ability was impaired by drugs Sunday brought a fine of $250 or 15 days in jail for Lee Wa Kim, 2249 Lansdowne, when he appeared at a special sitting of Saanich police court today.

Police said he was the driver of a vehicle which struck a 15-year-old girl, Donna Marx, 772 Queens, on Shelbourne Street Sunday.

The girl was admitted to hospital for observation and later released.

Police said the accused was taking drugs for a medical condition and had taken an overdose.

Premier Hits Times' Fall Election Story

Premier Bennett today vigorously denied there will be a fall provincial general election, and charged The Victoria Daily Times with "doing a disservice to British Columbia."

BOND CLAIM RIDICULOUS, SAYS BENNETT

Mayor J. C. Wragg of Duncan today accused the fire of Premier W. A. C. Bennett by a statement Duncan got a better price on municipal bonds than the provincial government.

"The mayor's statement is ridiculous and untrue," said the premier.

He said he was not criticizing the city of Duncan, or the price it obtained for the bonds, but that he was "dealing with these erroneous statements which go out from time to time."

Premier Bennett said the net rate for the life of the bond, for the last issue of government-backed bonds issued for school districts, was 3.21 per cent.

"Duncan got a 4.05 net rate for the life of the bond," he said. "That means the province got a price 25 per cent higher than Duncan."

Sentences Monday, On Assault Counts

Jack Clark, 2695 Douglas, and Grant Shaver, 2829 Cedar Hill Road, were remanded to Monday for sentence, when they appeared in city police court today on charges of assault and possession of stolen property.

They are charged in connection with May 4 strong-arming of city motorist Sidney Anderson, 825 Broughton.

Both have pleaded guilty to the charges.

A third youth, George Ludlow, 1142 Caledonia, has been charged with assault and theft of a watch.

He will appear in court Friday for decision on a request to withdraw a plea of guilty given last Saturday on the theft charge.

BCHIS Won't Pay Any New Wage Boosts

Health Minister Eric Martin lowered the financial boom on B.C.'s hospitals today with a "hold-the-line" order officials say will be impossible to maintain.

The order, the result of a cabinet policy decision, makes hospital boards responsible for all wage increases over the 1954 level.

Many hospitals, including Victoria's Royal Jubilee, already have granted wage increases this year, and now that provincial aid has been cut off, will have to find money to pay for the boosts.

CUT STAFF

In Vancouver, worried hospital administrators said they may have to cut staff and services to stay within the BCHIS budget requirements.

Premier Bennett, asked to comment on the situation, said the government was anxious to prevent a rise "in the overall cost" of running B.C.'s hospitals.

A directive, sent last week to all hospital directors, said salary increases over the 1954 level "cannot be accepted."

SQUEEZED

Hospitals have had to pay, in many cases, increases ordered by arbitration boards, and officials said the order will "put on the squeeze."

Victoria hospital officials said it would be "impossible to cut services."

The hold-the-line order is similar to directives issued in 1952 and 1953. They were battered down by hospital workers, whose wages have climbed 150 per cent in the past six years.

Hospitals applied for "under the table" grants in aid, which the government granted when circumstances reached the serious stage.

Feminine Fixin's Please
Sugar 'n' Spice Youngsters

By PENNY SAVER

All of a sudden, you find that the baby girl of the family is assuming typical grown-up feminine characteristics. How did this happen? Possibly from watching Mommy and older sister taking time to primp and preen. In imitation the little Miss will fluff out her hair, and try to give herself or her doll a manicure or permanent.

Instead of hashing together left-over bits of make-up, curlers and things for her to play with, buy one of the interesting little kits on sale in town. This miniature "Beauty Shop" kit with all kinds of feminine fixin's is set up "just like Mommy's."

In the kit is a tiny towel, comb, mirror, "lipstick", rouge, perfume, shampoo, pins and curlers, wave set, nail polish, nail pencil, a polish rest, and emery board. What more in the line of "beautifying" could the small fry want? The exciting contents will bring squeals of joy from your little girl. This set is $1.59.

A facial kit for dolls is chock-full of fascinating doll-size things, too. There's a powder puff, some cleanser, dusting powder, hand lotion, cotton, a rubber make-up cape, and box of tissues. Every doll the little girl owns will be glamorized before long. This set is also $1.59.

You might also introduce your suddenly fashion-conscious youngster to a wee manicure set all her own. There are two sizes, at 49 and 98 cents. Or how about the cleverly assembled shampoo sets at 69 cents? All substances used in the kits are completely harmless, and provide only a lot of fun, maybe a little mess, but certainly no danger.

Since I was in the toy department of this particular store, I took a peek at the boy-type toys. Lo and behold! What did I find? A Dragnet water pistol with a portable reserve tank. Horrors!

Made of durable black plastic, both the gun and the tank will stand up to rough treatment. The tank clips onto a belt or pocket, and will carry a supply of water that would last most of an active day for the junior-sized detective. A plastic tube runs from the tank to the gun, so junior won't even have to stop to refill it. The price is only 98 cents.

Co-Workers Honor Pat Frejd

Miss Pat Frejd was honored guest recently when the staff of the laboratory at St. Joseph's Hospital gathered to wish her happiness. The young bride-elect was presented with a corsage of gardenias upon her arrival. Her mother, Mrs. M. Frejd, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. J. G. Shaw, received corsages of iris and pink carnations respectively. A pale blue clothes hamper decorated with white was one of the gifts, and it held the miscellaneous other gifts for the guest of honor. Invited guests were Mrs. H. Coleman, Mrs. G. Dawlings, Mrs. M. Dunsford, Mrs. H. Fickel, Mrs. P. Hubner, Mrs. H. Lee, Mrs. R. Ledue, Mrs. C. McBratney, Mrs. P. Mar, Mrs. G. Quinton, Mrs. L. Schendler, Mrs. D. of interest to Women Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Miss Marion Royce arrived in Victoria today from Ottawa on her first visit as director of the new Women's Bureau, a branch of the Federal Department of Labor.

This fact, in itself, is of interest to every employed woman and when Miss Royce speaks at a public meeting tonight in the music room at Victoria Public Library, the hall should be filled.

There is an added interest, however, for members of the Local Council of Women, the YWCA and the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Clubs for it was the national federations of these groups that took the lead in urging the government that a Women's Bureau be added to the federal scene.

Over several years petitions were sent in, resolutions were passed, and delegations met the federal members. Finally, in May, 1953, Labor Minister Milton F. Gregg told the House of Commons that he planned to set up a Women's Bureau in the Labor Department.

Immediately the search commenced for a competent woman to head the branch. Realization of the bureau and appointment of Miss Royce to the post of first director took place in September, 1954.

Why was the bureau established? Between the years 1901 to 1951 the number of women in gainful employment in Canada increased five-fold and the percentage of women within the total working force almost doubled.

Industrial expansion, contingent upon Canada's part in the two World Wars set off this revolutionary change in the social and economic pattern of our life.

This fact of women's growing participation in the labor force, with all its implications for Canadian life, was chief reason for the establishment of a Women's Bureau.

Miss Marion Royce is a specialist on the status of women, an educationist, a woman who has traveled widely and whose travels and experiences have given her a rare vision of what women may contribute to their own and others' welfare.

Born and educated in St. Thomas, Ont., Miss Royce obtained her BA with honors in English and History at McMaster University. She obtained her Master's degree at the University of Toronto. Her professional experiences include that of executive secretary, National Girls' Work Board of the Religious Education Council of Canada. She was responsible for the promotion of the Canadian Girls in Training program including writing and publishing of program materials.

Highly-Trained Background An Asset

She has been on the staff of the Montreal YWCA. She was the first Canadian to join the staff of the World YWCA at Geneva and was consultant for social and international questions working with National YWCA's in some 50 countries in education in the above fields, especially as related to women. The head of the new bureau was responsible also for supervision of consultative relationships of the World's YWCA with the ILO, UNESCO and FAO.

Two years ago, Miss Royce returned to Toronto as principal of Moulton College—a residential and day school for girls. Her spare time story includes the writing and publishing of a number of books on women and women's work.

Recently the new head of the Women's Bureau said in an interview "in developing the work of the bureau we anticipate close working relations with other branches of the Department of Labor. We shall turn to the National Employment Service of the Unemployment Insurance Commission for data regarding the employment of women. The Women's Division of the Commission is one of the sure keys to our work. We shall be in touch also with the Departments of Labor of the provincial governments and with voluntary organizations, including the trade unions."

"One of our chief functions will be to develop regular channels of communication with women's groups, employer and labor organizations as well as with various interested government agencies."

It is to contact the employment service branches and the provincial Department of Labor that Miss Royce is on the Pacific Coast at present.

She is a woman of analytical mind, articulate, direct, realistic and friendly. She brings to her new post a highly-trained background and a world-wide view of women's place in the social economic world of today.

From Far Places of World to Meet and Marry

A marriage has been arranged!

The simple words culminating in an announcement today by Mrs. Ethel Farmer, Vancouver, of the engagement of her younger daughter, Rosemary Ethel Farmer, to Mr. Jörn Harsvad Winther, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. R. Winther of Aalborg, Denmark, tell a pretty story of romance.

The young people came from the far corners of the earth to meet and to be married in the picturesque St. Luke's Anglican Church, Cedar Hill, on Saturday, June 18, at 2 p.m. Miss Farmer, a Royal Jubilee Hospital nurse, was born in Canton, China, where her father was a silk merchant. During the war she and her parents spent a year in a Japanese concentration camp, later they moved to Johannesburg, South Africa, in exchange for Japanese prisoners in England. It was here Miss Farmer's father died.

John Winther was born in Denmark, where his father operates an oil import company. His mother was a famous Danish ballet dancer prior to her marriage. The Winther family went through the period of German occupation. After he finished his army service in Denmark, young Mr. Winther came to Canada, three years ago. He worked in Ottawa, Toronto and Calgary before coming to this city.

In order to learn the English language and the customs of Canada he has accepted many different positions including that of railroad worker, truck driver, aerial photographer, accountant, salesman, actor and director.

Miss Farmer to the wedding on June 18. Following the ceremony, the horse and cart will also convey the young couple to a reception which will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Organist at Recent Wedding Played for Bride's Parents Organ music for the wedding of Miss Doris Arlene Brookbank to Peter John Kempel was played by Capt. L. G. Marrs, who had played at the bride's parent's wedding.

Rev. Bernard Knipe officiated at the ceremony in Mill Bay United Church which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Brookbank, Duncan, B.C., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rempel, Chetumus. Spring flowers were placed in the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of nylon net and lace over taffeta, with strapless bodice and lace bolero. A halo of orange blossoms held her long bridal veil. Her bouquet was of pink roses and lily of the valley.

Bridesmaids were Miss Amy Brookbank and Miss Marrs. Best man was George Rempel, a brother of the groom. Henry Rempel, another brother, and Edward Harms were ushers. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where a three-tier wedding cake was centred on the bride's table. An old friend of the family, Cyril Porter, proposed the toast to the bride.

For a motor trip to the interior of British Columbia, the bride donned a navy suit with short fitted jacket and a full gored skirt. She wore red and white accessories and a corsage of white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Rempel will live on the Old Koksilah Road, near Duncan, B.C.

Among those who went to Mill Bay for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brookbank, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. E. Brookbank, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brookbank, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Porter, and Mr. E. G. WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

No matter how rushed, manage to lie down and rest for at least ten minutes before the family comes home.

We all recognize the important influence of emotional states and mental attitudes on health as well as happiness. We constantly are warned by doctors to take it easier, to untense, to hurry and worry less, to take short rest periods and get enough sleep and relaxation if we are to prolong the youthful portion of life and to remain well.

Did you know that there is a non-profit organization which promotes relaxation? This is the Relaxation Club of America. Here are some of the hints they pass along to women who think of themselves as "nervous wrecks":

1. No matter how rushed, manage to lie down and rest for at least 10 minutes before the family comes home.

2. Do not bring up controversial subjects at the dinner table. Talk about pleasant things and solve problems at some other time.

3. When shopping quit before you get too tired.

4. Don't get overstimulated just before retiring. If a game of cards proves too exciting, read something soothing for a half hour before turning off the lights.

5. Plan your day ahead and don't crowd it with too many things to do. You'll get nervous thinking about it, and will awaken with a feeling of rush the next morning.

6. If certain friends or acquaintances have a tendency to irritate or annoy or depress you, cut them out for a while.

7. Do not harbor grudges. If you have been hurt and cannot forget it, "have it out." Stewing about it only builds tension.

8. Relax wherever and whenever you can. Even while waiting for a bus or a train you can be relaxing, if you make up your mind to do so.

9. Do not drink anything stimulating just before retiring if you have found that it keeps you awake.

10. Get at least eight hours' sleep a night.

Exercise is one of the very finest antidotes for nervous tension. If you would like to have my relaxing exercises send a stamped, self-addressed, envelope with your request for leaflet No. 24 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Summer Fashions in the Latest Modes Shown in Eaton's Victoria Room Today

Bathing suits and sports clothes led the parade of summer fashions shown this afternoon in Eaton's Victoria Room under auspices of the Women's Canadian Club of Victoria. Afternoon tea was served. The showing will be repeated on Friday afternoon.

First to appear on the flower-decked runway was Jan Joslin, who modeled a lovely Cole of California bathing suit with conservative skirt finished with striking white buttoned cuff. Helen Biernes modeled a beach ensemble in striking leopard pattern featuring the "naughty length" beach coat, the name inspired because it barely covers the matching suit.

From California the fashion picture turned to Italy, with Pat Gannon presenting a becoming TV or sportswear ensemble in botany knit black and white striped cardigan top with pearl button trim and fitted and tapered TV slacks.

It was back to the southern States again when Barbara Hindson appeared in a sports suit designed by Tabak of California in imported silk with matching blouse. Nona Damask presented a full-circle skirt made of the wonderful new Pellon that does not crease or wrinkle. With it she wore a pretty chartreuse cotton blouse.

Cotton dresses, skirts and blouses mixed and matched were shown in a variety of styles and colors. Outstanding was a smart wrap-around sun dress worn by Ina Bain with big pockets in the skirt.

Mrs. Crossley in a pretty brunch-style dress in everglaze cotton, washable and wrinkle resistant, was popular with the large audience.

Second half of the showing presented a collection of new arrivals from the fashion floor and the import room. Miss Hindson modeled a perfectly tailored Sybil Connolly suit from Dublin, of signature tweed; Mrs. Crossley wore a summer costume of silk worsted coat and fashionable sheath dress.

A linen guster with self scarf and patch pockets over a printed silk dress was modeled by Jan Joslin, and a pretty cotton print by Horrocks Fashions, London, was shown by Nona Damask.

A smart white pique dress for sunning or after-five was striking on Helen Biernes and a Gerry Gilden spring-like print dress worn by Ina Bain was very popular with the audience. It featured a low curved neck.

line, brief sleeves, velvet belt and full gathered skirt.

Mrs. Crossley led the final presentation of summer formal models wearing a dusty rose lace model that would be perfect for the mother of the bride. Prints, silk organzas and taffetas were shown here.

To Barbara Hindson went the honor of wearing a Rolande original, an exclusive British import of Guipure candlelight lace designed in princess style with no visible seams front or back giving a smooth, long, lithe and lovely line.

Ida Bianco was commentator and gave a delightful picture of all the different models in this summer fashion display.

Dogwood Tea at Hospital Realizes $700 for Auxiliary

Dogwood pins were on sale at the door of the Veterans' Hospital Wednesday afternoon during the Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital annual Dogwood Tea, where a sum of $700 was netted. Arrangements of spring flowers brightened the rooms and a larger arrangement in a yellow pottery bowl centered the lighted main refreshment table.

Receiving guests at the affair, which was opened by Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, were Mrs. F. Logan, convener; Mrs. D. Leslie Macdonell, auxiliary president, and Miss S. J. Roberts, hospital matron. While the Royal Canadian Navy band played selections, tours of the hospital were conducted by members of the staff.

English Country Wedding Of Interest in Victoria

A country church in Berkshire, Eng., was scene of a recent wedding when Miss Daphne Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Parker, "Sandisplatt" Maidenhead Thicket, Berkshire, exchanged vows with Robert A. Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Cole, 308 Bessborough Road, View Royal. The ceremony in St. James the Less Church, Stubbings, Henry Road, Maidenhead Thicket, Berkshire, was conducted by Rev. B. A. Soltair.

Pale pink and white blossoms were placed on either side of the chancel steps, and daffodils and other spring flowers completed the floral setting.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a deep cream brocaded satin gown fashioned in princess style with long sleeves. The skirt folded gracefully into a small train. A small cap of matching material held her short veil, and yellow roses formed her bridal bouquet.

Her attendants, a senior bridesmaid and two junior bridesmaids, were gowned in deep rose shot silk taffeta, and wore ribbon bands of matching material dotted with fresh blossoms in their hair. Rosebuds and forget-me-nots were in their bouquets which were knotted with looped ribbons in mauve, pink, yellow and pale blue.

A little fair-haired page was dressed in plum-colored velvet trousers and a deep cream silk blouse with little tie.

The bride's brother-in-law was best man.

After the ceremony, the home of the bride's parents, "Sandisplatt," was scene of a reception. Mr. and Mrs. Parker assisted the newlyweds in receiving guests, after which refreshments were served in the garden, where the sun shone the whole afternoon.

What Your Pains Mean

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ.

And Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

CHAPTER VIII INSOMNIA

In many cases the best way of leading a tired and nervous person back to health is by teaching him to sleep again. Unless one can do this it is of little use to talk to him of resting.

The physician who would treat insomnia intelligently must keep in mind that there are different types with different causes, and that the treatment for one type may not work well for another.

Many persons find it hard to get to sleep when they go to bed, while others go to sleep easily enough, but soon wake and then find it hard to drop off again. Others wake at some time from 2 to 5 in the morning and then have difficulty in getting back to sleep. Others are waking and drowsing and waking again all through the night. Others are more or less unconscious all night but do not get sufficient rest because they keep tossing about, or having nightmares.

The commonest cause of insomnia are overwork, worry, mental fatigue, and muscular or nervous tension. Many people get too tired mentally to sleep; the brain gets going so fast that it is difficult or impossible to shut it off. Perhaps the pulse is felt throbbing all over, and the whole body is too much alive. This is particularly true when much mental work has been done in the evening, and especially work such as writing, teaching, or public speaking, which gets a person all wound up.

If a man wants to get to sleep around 10 he should begin to "shut off the machinery" about 8 so that it can slow down and gradually come to a stop. If he keeps going actively until 10 he is likely to stay awake until 12 or later.

TOO MUCH WORRYING

Many persons who suffer with insomnia start thinking and worrying the minute they turn out the light. They live over unpleasant happenings of the past. They think how they might have avoided annoyances, or misfortunes; they worry over disasters, which they fear are impending, and they plan for the future.

Naturally a person who is thinking such thoughts cannot sleep. His muscles remain so tense that his head is hardly resting on the pillow, and sleep cannot come until he sinks heavily into the mattress.

Treatment: The person should cut out night work since such work probably has more to do with producing insomnia than any other form of activity except worry. Anything that makes a person tense and keyed-up during the evening must be avoided.

Settling worries and making decisions. In many cases there can be no relief of insomnia until the patient makes up his or her mind about something such as a divorce or a business deal. All worriers must struggle hard to solve their problems during the day, and not to work on them at night.

PLAY SOLITAIRE

Hints for getting to sleep. Often when insomnia is bad it is wise to go to bed at least an hour before sleep is desired, and then to read something light or to play solitaire so that if, as often happens, a drowsy feeling should come, the person can snap out the light, drop down on the pillow and get to sleep in a moment. If the drowsiness were to come while the man was up and he had then to undress, brush his teeth, and open the window, he might get wide awake, and after that an hour or more might pass before drowsiness would come again. Because of this peculiarity of human behavior, many a person with insomnia has trouble when the spouse, after being asked to quiet down, persists in putting about. (Next: Chapter 8 Insomnia, continued.)

Ratepayers Claim Bridge Dangerous

Broken Bottle Case Results In Acquittal

VANCOUVER (CP)—Joseph Elgar Roy was acquitted on a charge of murder here Wednesday in the death of Maurice Lizotte following a drinking party in a skidroad hotel March 3.

The jury returned to ask Mr. Justice Macfarlane for instructions on the degree of force said to be used by Roy who was accused of driving the neck of a jagged bottle into Lizotte's throat.

A verdict was returned after 1 hour and 35 minutes. Police testified Roy was not intoxicated when he was picked up several hours after the killing. Testimony indicated the death followed a two-hour beer and wine party.

British Pressure Changes Ike's Mind

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's agreement in principle to a top level Big Four Conference is known here to have been a reluctant concession to French and British public opinion, especially to the British who are in an election campaign.

But Mr. Eisenhower is committed to the project now. The word in Washington was that he would go all out to bring about the conference and to make it a success. The President's firmly held preference was for careful preliminary planning leading to a foreign ministers' conference. The top level meeting was to be last, like the frosting on a cake, if at all.

There is a whiff, too, of concession to democratic political opinion in Mr. Eisenhower's agreement to seek a meeting of the Big Four heads of state.

Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee revived the Big Four conference idea in the United States last March 20 in a "Meet the Press" television appearance. George said the time had come when the real hope of avoiding war was a top level meeting.

Mr. Eisenhower's steady opposition to the Big Four meeting "at the summit," which Sir Winston Churchill so urgently and eloquently urged while he was prime minister, suggests that he is uneasy in his mind about a top level meeting of the Yalta nations.

The president said only last

March 30 that "there are many dangers" in a top level meeting without an agenda and adequate lower level preparation. But the president now wants the Big Four to meet without an "agenda" which is diplomatic talk for a program of items to be discussed.

Conservative chances in Great Britain's May 26 elections are considerably favored by Mr. Eisenhower's agreement in principle to meet at the top.

Phosphatic Fertilizers Keep Down Rampant Growth

Phosphatic fertilizers have the opposite effect to those in the nitrogenous class, checking the rampant growth and encouraging early formation of flowers, fruit and seed.

Superphosphate is an acid fertilizer best suited to soils containing lime. Basic slag, when procurable, is better for soils deficient in lime, or where club root is present.

Both these fertilizers are dug into the soil before planting, and superphosphate may be used as a dressing worked into the surface soil around the plants.

Steamed bone flour, another phosphatic fertilizer, is most valuable on the lighter soils. Potash benefits plants in all stages of growth. It stiffens the soft growth caused by nitrogen and hardens the cells of the plants. It is particularly valuable to leguminous and root crops, and should be worked into the soil before planting. Potatoes need and thrive on potash, and onions benefit considerably from its application.

Sulphate of potash is easily soluble and readily available as a plant food. Muriate (or chloride) of potash is a cheaper form requiring the use of larger quantities to obtain the same effects as from the sulphate.

Rock, or agricultural salt tends to liberate the potash already in the soil, and is sometimes used to economize on the chemical potash.

Crofton Chosen Pulp Mill Site

B.C. Forest Products Project To Cost Company $25,000,000

DUNCAN—B.C. Forest Products will build a $25,000,000 kraft pulp mill at Crofton, Hector G. Munro, company president, announced Wednesday night at the installation dinner of Duncan and district Chamber of Commerce.

Rumors of a pulp mill at Crofton have persisted for two years. Construction of such a mill, regardless of site, was stated by the company to depend on it being granted a forest management license.

Announcement of the license April 19 brought the possibility of the mill even closer, and it was openly predicted that Crofton would be chosen as the site.

Crofton was established 50 years ago as a smelter centre, but the collapse of mining here and elsewhere brought quiet days for the village until the lumber industry brought increasing activity to the harbor as a port and booming ground. In the municipality of North Cowichan, it is nine miles from Duncan and six from Chemainus.

Construction is expected to start in the near future, and will require from 350 to 450 workers, with a possible peak of 750. When the mill is in production it will employ 225 men with an annual payroll of $1,250,000. Output will be 250 tons of kraft pulp per day.

Raw material for the mill will consist of chips from the company's Cowichan operations that now are exported to the United States, and other waste material usually left in the forest.

The mill also will take material from small independent loggers and farmers woodlots.

Chamber of Commerce members received the news with enthusiasm, and hailed the year-round operation of a large forest industrial plant as introducing a new era of permanency into the economic life of the district.

In addition, the forest license will mean stability for the company's Youbou sawmill and logging operations at Cayuse, Nitinat and Port Renfrew.

WASTE DISPOSAL

Mill design will take into effect all means of reducing odors, and fisheries biologists are studying the problem of mill waste disposal. Present plans call for discharge of effluent at a 60-foot depth well beyond the harbor, using a system to cost $300,000.

Mah water supply will be Cowichan Lake. The company, B.C. game department and provincial and federal fisheries departments are co-operating on a control system in the river that should improve fishing. Mr. Munro said.

Nanaimo Groups Will Decide Location of Sports Centre

By GEORGE MOLECEY

NANAIMO—A meeting next Thursday of the Recreation Commission, voting members from practically every service club, the Chamber of Commerce, and Junior Chamber, will affect future developments of this city's sports centre.

With three choices, voting members seem divided on the right location for the sports grounds, long a contentious subject. The school board, with some supporters, favors the Senior High School grounds. Others will vote for development of the Beban estate, while Bowen Park Development Association has put forth good reasons why Bowen Park located within the city limits is the logical place to benefit the greatest number.

Estimated cost of preparing the high school grounds, located within a few yards of old coal workings would be $25,000 in addition to the cost of necessary drainage. The school board is prepared to lease the grounds to the city for 99 years for one dollar. One objection pointed out is that some restrictions would affect use of the grounds while school was in progress.

GOOD DRAINAGE

Beban Park site is considered by many to be too far out of town, and currently has very little available space cleared for playing fields.

Bowen Park, it was pointed out by Stan Dyer at a directors' meeting of the Bowen Park group Tuesday, "is ideal, where one cleared area alone is 550 by 350 feet, with excellent drainage."

"The area of the old Central Sports Ground, now site of Simpsons-Sears and Safeway shopping centre, could be dropped into a cleared portion of Bowen Park with room to spare," he said.

Meanwhile Bowen Park Association plans to present reasons why the park located in the city centre is the logical place for Nanaimo's sports grounds to be located.

Mrs. Ethel Douglas, one of the Bowen Park directors, expressed her disgust at seeing grown-ups leaving the park last Sunday with armfuls of wild flowers. She asked park directors for support in requesting school principals to ask pupils not to pick flowers in the park.

"The parents should take enough pride in their own park to protect the flowers and certainly not destroy them as some are now doing," she said.

Outboard Runabout Salmon Derby Prize

CHEMAINUS—A 15-foot runabout boat powered by an outboard motor will be first prize in the Rod and Gun Club's annual salmon derby slated for Aug. 28.

President Al Dyer announced at the regular meeting that boundaries would remain the same as last year, and that checkout stations would be retained.

Members endorsed a Nanaimo motion to come before the affiliated meeting, recommending that the practice of liberating pheasants be discontinued, and that money saved be used in game research and access road development.

Eagles' Auxiliary Honors Mothers

LADYSMITH — Mrs. Ray Knight, president of the Eagles' Auxiliary, gave the address of welcome to almost 100 guests who attended the auxiliary's annual Mother's Day tea in the United Church hall here.

Corsages were presented to Mrs. Julia Johnson, 82, who was the oldest mother present; Mrs. C. Landly, 55 years a resident in Ladysmith; Mrs. Frank Cruell, mother of the youngest child at the tea; Mrs. L. E. Jamison, mother of the largest family, and Mrs. Mary Formeaux, auxiliary mother.

Ray Knight Named New Scoutmaster For Ladysmith

LADYSMITH — Ray Knight was appointed scoutmaster at a meeting of the Scout group committee here, succeeding Les Smith, who was forced to resign because of other affairs.

Mr. Knight has been assistant scoutmaster for several years. Mrs. J. Grouhel resigned as leader of "A" Cub pack. The boys have been taken into "B" pack, led by Mrs. J. M. Petrak and Mrs. T. Boggs.

Red Sox Winners In League Opener

CHEMAINUS — Chemainus Red Sox, last year's Mid-Island League champions and playoff winners, made a good start in the 1955 season by taking a twin bill from Port Alberni Cubs.

Red Sox met a vastly improved Port Alberni team, and scored 43 and 21 victories.

Doug English was winning pitcher in the first game, while Joe Copp went the distance and knocked in the winning run in the nightcap.

DEATH PENALTY NO DETERENT TO CRIME

Abolish Corporal Punishment Famed Warden Tells Ottawa

OTTAWA (BUP)—A former warden of California's San Quentin prison, who talked to every man in death row from 1929 to 1952, today urged the abolition of capital punishment.

Clinton B. Duffy, now a member of the California adult authority, told a joint parliamentary committee on capital and corporal punishment that he was convinced the death penalty was not a deterrent to crime.

"From 1929 to 1952 I talked with every man that was committed to San Quentin under the penalty of death," he said.

"I have personally asked every man, and two women, if they gave any thought to the fact that they might be executed should they commit a murder or a crime that is covered by the death penalty. I have asked thousands of prisoners who have committed homicide and were not sentenced to death."

Not one person, he said, had thought about the death penalty before committing the crime.

"I do not favor capital punishment because I do not believe it is a deterrent to crime."

The 57-year-old penologist outlined the execution procedure by lethal gas in California.

MORE HUMANE
He said he had witnessed more than 150 executions and legally officiated at 90. Duffy outlined the disfigurement and pain caused a person killed by electrocution or hanging. He said lethal gas executions were more humane.

He gave actual details on hanging and electrocution which he called "gruesome."

He said one or more persons fainted at each electrocution or hanging.

In lethal gas executions, he said, "in a matter of seconds, the prisoner is unconscious. It is as though he had gone to sleep. The body is not disfigured or mutilated in any way."

Duffy, the son of a prison guard, grew up inside the walls of San Quentin. He met his wife for the first time inside the prison. She was the daughter of a prison employee.

He told the committee that corporal punishment had been abolished at San Quentin in 1940. "Most people commit crimes when they are emotionally, mentally or morally disturbed. The causes of crime cannot be changed by brutality—by corporal punishment," he said.

FIGHT BACK
People, like animals, fight back, either physically or mentally, when they are brutally attacked.

He said the abolishment of corporal punishment improved prison morale and aided the rehabilitation of prisoners.

In expressing opposition to the death penalty, Duffy said there was no equality in conviction or sentencing.

"The verdict of death... is an emotional release by those who are hearing the case. Seldom is a person of means executed. If he has a competent attorney he usually receives a lesser degree of punishment."

He also warned there was the chance of error which could not be corrected after a prisoner had been executed.

The committee held a closed meeting after Duffy's testimony and will submit a report of its findings to Parliament before the end of the current session of Parliament.

Robinson Faces Damage Suit

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A $40,000 damage suit has been filed in federal court against Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn Dodgers first baseman, and the Brooklyn ball club, by a Milwaukee husband and wife who claimed they were hit by a bat thrown by Robinson June 2, 1954.

Pirie Picked to Keep Track World Buzzing

LONDON (CP)—This way be galloping Gordon Pirie's big year. The forgotten man of British running, a one-man gang in 1953, was sidelined by a foot injury last season while Roger Bannister, John Landy, Chris Chataway, Vladimir Kuc and Emil Zatopek scooted into the record books.

With a little luck, the lean athlete is expected to surpass his 1953 achievements, for which he was acclaimed athlete, champion and sportsman of the year in three separate awards. Watch out for Pirie from one to six miles, say the experts.

held by his old adversary, Zatopek.

And Pirie indicated a new technique by turning on a finishing sprint similar to Bannister's best instead of heading for the front and staying there as he used to do.

The word is that Pirie, six feet, two inches tall and a bearcat for work, will concentrate on distances from 880 yards to the two miles early in the season. He has his eye on the mile and 1,500 metres. It will be a race between Pirie and American Wes Santee, whom he trounced over the mile in 1953, to get under the four minutes.

'SIX WOMEN PAINTERS'

Island Artists' Work Exhibited at Gallery

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Elizabeth Goward, already widely-known for the sensitivity of her portraiture, has contributed what seems easily her best work to date in the Victoria Art Gallery's current salon, "Six Women Painters of Victoria."

With this show the Gallery inaugurates a new series of group exhibitions of the work of Island artists; and that this is a worthwhile idea is amply proved on this occasion, by the variety and general level of quality of most of the 30 or so paintings on view.

ENCHANTING

Mrs. Goward's pastels of children, such as "Jennifer" and "Ann," can only be described as enchanting. They are remarkably luminous, fresh and clean in color, while remaining traditional in handling. A more ambitious oil, "Study in Light and Shade," reveals a growing assurance in brushwork and summary treatment of form.

Maud Lettice uses her water color medium in a style that is broad, wet and free. Her subjects are landscape, her salient characteristic, a full, flowing and decorative line. This is particularly noticeable in such pieces as "Grain Elevator" and "Trees."

Margaret Longridge's "The Quarry," is a singularly successful piece—a structurally complex landscape in which the artist makes legitimate and original use of Cezanne's discoveries. But the variety of her approach in her oil medium, indicates a constant, serious search for the fullest synthesis of content and form.

QUITE PERSONAL

Several strong and vigorous canvases, among which the portrait "Phyllis" is especially striking, both as a study in character and as a piece of rich, dense painting, are the work of Gladys Ewan. Among her landscapes, "The Path" suggests that she is on the track of some quite personal and free style, as a result of her obvious probing for new forms.

Quiet, strangely intriguing linear harmonies mark the work of Sylvia Sutton, producing some of the show's best moments. Always suave in use of color, she has an authentic personal lyricism which can be as sensitive as in "Bulbs in a Bowl," or mysterious and nocturnal as in "Trees."

Muriel Barnes shows a talent for strong handling of water color in her "Nanaimo." She uses her washes with a remarkable degree of expertise, and while not quite so much at home in oils, her "Crescent Hotel, Nanaimo," is full of rich passages of color and deft handling of the brush.

Two other exhibitions complete the gallery's current program, an absorbing and varied display of crafts from New Brunswick, and a large UNESCO survey of the development of the fascinating and aesthetic art of the Japanese woodcut.

New Mayor Will Ask 'The Boys' How to Operate

'Let's Keep It Clean'—He Says

GALVESTON, Tex. (UP)—Galveston's new mayor, elected on a promise of a "clean but liberal town," said today he will call a meeting soon of all gambling operators to find out how "the boys" think this coastal resort should be run.

George Roy Clough, a tall, dignified man of 64 who owns a radio station and was elected mayor Saturday over an incumbent who campaigned for a "100 per cent open town," expressed his own views on city government.

On gambling (illegal in Texas): "Well, I'll have to ask the boys what they want. Whatever they want will be all right with me, I think."

On gambling on Sunday: "I don't know how the boys feel about that, but I'm not against it. If the ministers don't like it, they can file a complaint with the County Attorney, if they have the courage."

ORDERLY MANNER

On prostitution: "I am in favor of these boys continuing to operate in an orderly manner with a clean establishment. What do I mean by clean? Don't handle dope in any way, shape or form. No showing of lewd sex movies, such as are being shown in a number of establishments here. This contributes not only to juvenile but to adult delinquency."

Prostitutes, he said, "should be put into a district where they can be recognized for what they are. The situation now is that they are in all the cheap hotels and they have call girls in the residential areas."

Lots of Skiers

CONCORD, N.H. (UP)—New Hampshire's ski tows and lifts, laid end to end, would reach more than 20 miles. The state's planning and development commission says theoretically the combined lifts and tows could carry 50,000 skiers an hour to the summit of Mt. McKinley, the highest mountain in North America.

80-Seat Win Predicted for Eden; Betting 7-2 Against Laborites

LONDON (UP)—The Conservative party of Prime Minister Anthony Eden is steadily gaining strength in the campaign race for victory over Clement Attlee's Laborites in the May 26 general elections, public opinion polls indicated today.

Bookmakers—betting is legal in Britain—are now quoting odds of 7 to 2 against the Laborites. Last week they offered only 5 to 2.

The latest newspaper polls showed an increase in Conservative popularity. The polls reported that 49½ per cent of voters questioned intend to vote Conservative while 47 per cent favor Labor. A week ago it

The priests, who were the doctor-pharmacists, prescribed medicines after interpreting the dreams of their patients, according to researchers of the Arner Co. MORE PRESIDENT CHAMPAGNE is sold in Canada than any other Champagne—Canadian or imported!

President Champagne is now available in all B.C. Liquor Control Board stores. This advertisement is not published or displayed by the Liquor Control Board or by the Government of British Columbia.

WORRISOME TREND

Laborites admittedly were concerned over the trend. The Conservative vote is more evenly spread throughout the country, which means the Labor party must get 2 per cent more votes than the Conservatives just to break even in parliamentary seats.

If today's newspaper polls were borne out in the actual halting the Conservatives would

Frank Owen Will Run In Hereford As Liberal

LONDON (CP)—Frank Owen, back in Britain after a speaking tour in Canada, will run as a Liberal candidate in the May 26 general election, he said today.

Owen, a veteran Fleet Street editor at 49, is going to run in Hereford, his hometown. Twenty-six years ago, at the age of 23, Owen ran in Hereford and won, becoming the "baby" of the House of Commons. Later Owen drifted out of politics and into newspaper work. He recently concluded a speaking tour in Canada.

TREATY SIGNING SUNDAY

Russians Bow To Ultimatum On Austria

VIENNA, Austria (UP)—The Soviet Union agreed today to sign an Austrian state treaty on western terms in one of the biggest breaks of the long cold war.

The east-west agreement paved the way for the Big Four foreign ministers to meet in Vienna this week-end to sign the treaty and arrange a later conference of the Big Four heads of government.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson, head of the American treaty delegation, told newsmen at the end of today's crucial session:

"The treaty will be signed Sunday."

He said a joint five-power communique would be issued later today on the successful outcome of the parity.

The sudden break in the treaty negotiations came after 11 days of deadlock over the terms of article 35 of the 59-article document. Article 35 governs Austria's debts to the Soviet Union.

The dispute involved Austrian oil and shipping properties, which the Russians took over as war reparations. The Soviets promised Austria last month that these properties would be returned. This was a sensational concession, as Monday Russia had refused to write it into the treaty.

The west insisted, and won its point, that the agreement be put into the treaty.

U.S. ULTIMATUM

The deadlock had threatened to break up the conference. The United States had served an ultimatum on the Soviet Union to agree upon a completed draft treaty today or call off Sunday's foreign ministers session at which the treaty was to be signed.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had announced in Paris that he would fly home instead of to Vienna if the Soviets continued to block agreement on the one remaining key article of the treaty draft.

But when the Soviets backed down and agreed to the west's demands, the western Big Three foreign ministers headed for Vienna.

Heroic Mother Dies Beside Her Children

AMHERSTBURG, Ont. (CP)—A mother and her three children died Wednesday night in flames which destroyed their home. The mother apparently lost her life during a vain attempt to rescue her eight-year-old son.

The dead: Mrs. Marjorie Smith, 30; her daughters, Patsy, 13, and Carol, 12, and her son, Billy.

Firemen said they found Mrs. Smith died in the boy's bedroom. They said her arms were around the child and she appeared to have been overcome while trying to get him to safety.

Carol and Patsy tried to make their way to safety down the blazing stairway from the second floor but died at the door of their room.

RED MARSHAL SENDS IKE BEST WISHES

MOSCOW (UP)—Soviet Marshal V. D. Sokolovsky, chief of staff of Soviet armed forces, today sent "friendly greetings and best wishes" to President Eisenhower.

The occasion was a gala reception and banquet given for the American and Russian veterans of the meeting at the Elbe River in the Second World War.

Sokolovsky was asked by the United Press if he had any message for President Eisenhower. He replied: Give him my friendly greetings and best wishes. Of course, I remember him—we spent six months on the control council (Allied Control Council in Berlin after the end of the Second World War).

The Russian marshal's "friendly greetings" came only a matter of days after Mr. Eisenhower had disclosed he was exchanging "personal" letters with Russian Defence Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Sokolovsky was head of the Russian delegation on the Allied Control Council for Germany in 1948.

IWA Wage Dispute to Conciliation

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two government labor officials today recommended appointment of a conciliation board after failing to break a bargaining deadlock between 32,000 union woodworkers and coast lumber and logging employers.

A conciliation board is expected to be set up within three weeks.

'Margaret's Fancy' Hits London As Chaplain Raps Divorce Rules

From CP and UP Dispatches
LONDON — A new dance called "Princess Margaret's Fancy" hit London Wednesday night, and the Queen's 24-year-old sister helped to introduce it.

The occasion was the English Folk Dance and Song Society's exhibition. Within 15 minutes of her arrival, Princess Margaret was out on the floor swinging and whirling with 250 other dancers.

Later she joined Britain's clog-dance champion, Jack Toaduff, a 21-year-old miner from Newcastle, in a square dance. Said Toaduff: "She's smashing and so easy to talk to. It was the biggest thrill of my life. Oh well, back to the pit on Monday."

The princess, who danced for three hours, wore the first royal version of the A-line, a pale pink and mauve taffeta gown, billowing out from below the hips.

Meanwhile a statement by the Queen's chaplain that he was

Governor-General's Gold Medal Added to Victorian's Laurels

By PETE LOUDON

Twenty-one-year-old Lyle P. Robertson is winner of the Governor-General's gold medal as top UBC graduate in arts, it was announced today.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Robertson at 941 McKenzie Avenue, say at last writing their son reported he thought his results would be "fair" and added: "Oh, I guess I'll get through."

The winner of the university's highest award had a record of achievement before leaving here for UBC.

He topped his Victoria High graduating class and was second highest in the province in averages. He has taken so many scholarships that his parents can't recall them all.

Last week he was awarded an $800 bursary by the National Research Council. Mr. Robertson's ambition is to be a nuclear physicist. He will continue classes at UBC through the summer on the way to his master's degree. His mother says he believes three more years at the university will bring his PhD.

In Victoria he attended Sir James Douglas, Victoria High where his 17-year-old brother, Terry, graduates this year, and Victoria College. He led the second-year class at the college. He was born in Vancouver but has lived here since he was two months old.

Other Victorians awarded scholarships are: Walter Komarnicki, 2548 Blanshard, winner of a $500 Dr. F. J. Nicholson scholarship; Walter C. MacDonald, 2835 Beach, who won an honor medal and $100 prize for highest academic standing in fourth year medicine; Rowland Grant, 2421 Cedar Hill, winner of a $950 Standard Oil Fellowship; and Rose Ginsberg, 3185 Weald, who took the $25 David Bolocan Memorial Prize for attainments in philosophy and psychology.

This year's Rhodes scholar, announced last December, is Walter Douglas Young, 2527 Thompson.

A total of 903 degrees will be handed out to the 1955 graduating class at UBC Monday and Tuesday next week. Three Victorians will be among five receiving honorary degrees. (See Page 3.)

not very happy" about the Church of England attitude toward divorce brought Princess Margaret's reported romance back to the front pages today.

The tabloid Daily Mirror reported the statement by the Rev. Charles Earle Raven under a front-page banner headline. Raven told a London marriage guidance council meeting: "On the whole I am not very happy about the way my own church and Christendom in general is handling the situation."

"It is to me a tragic thing that so many religious people think the way to handle the difficulties is by enforcing a law against any kind of divorce."

He said he was not advocating easier divorce but he gave examples of wronged persons which he said "makes me see red." He added, "I am not yet convinced that the house of bishops has done very much except to make it more difficult."

4 Province Police Alert For Convict

Manitoba Escapee 'Extremely Dangerous'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Search for a scar-faced convict, described by police as "extremely dangerous," was launched throughout western Canada today.

Police established roadblocks in southern Manitoba as the hunt for 36-year-old Alexander Zakopiac began. Zakopiac, serving a 30-year prison term for attempted murder and armed bank robbery, escaped early today from the mental hospital at Selkirk, 30 miles north of here, where he was undergoing observation. He had recently been transferred from Stony Mountain penitentiary.

Winnipeg's inspector of detectives, James Mulholland, said Zakopiac is "one of the worst criminals we've had in years."

Zakopiac, described by police as a drug addict, was wanted in Vancouver for attempted murder but officials there did not execute their warrant when he was given 30 years in Manitoba.

An RCMP officer said Zakopiac is suffering from fear and might draw a gun at any time.

Bomb Shatters Car; Girl, 2 Men Die

VALCARTIER, Que. (BUP)—Three of four persons trespassing on the sprawling Valcartier military camp to pick up old grenades and shells to sell as scrap metal were killed Wednesday night when a grenade suddenly went off in a shattering explosion.

The broken bodies of the victims and the wreckage of their nine-year-old car were found early today scattered over a wide area. The wife of one of the victims, protected by the car when the grenade exploded, survived. She was taken to a hospital with cuts and fractured skull.

SIGNS IGNORED

Col. Harold Cathcart, camp commandant, said the party had invaded a firing range last night despite numerous "no trespassing" signs in English and French. He said the watch of one of the victims stopped at 10:15.

Cathcart said the party, including a 16-year-old girl, had loaded 40 or 50 shell and rocket casings and some grenades into their car parked in a stretch of sand. The load apparently was too heavy, and the car bogged down. He said it was believed the grenade exploded when they started to unload some of the cargo.

DISCARDED BOMBS

The grenade was one of several the party picked up, all of them marked to be destroyed by experts today after they had failed to explode when thrown during an exercise.

Cathcart said the party arrived at the camp at about 9 p.m. A patrol passed the area an hour later but didn't see them, and the accident was not discovered until early today.

The victims were identified by the Rev. Jules Edmond, parish priest of the neighboring village of St. Germain-Majella, where they lived.

They were Paul Odillon Daigle, 25, father of two children; Adrien Labranché, 22, and Marie Claire Daigle, 16. Paul Daigle and Marie Daigle were not related. Mrs. Paul Daigle was injured.

Forecast Hopeful For Swim Tonight

Hopes that Bert Thomas will make his Juan de Fuca Strait swim at 9 tonight were raised slightly by the weatherman at noon today when he predicted a drop in strong south-westerlies to 10-15 miles an hour by late evening.

The Tacoma logger's second consecutive swim postponement came at about 6 p.m. Wednesday as winds lashed the strait and seafarers into foam-topped combers. He has three more days, including today, of favorable tides.

Forecaster Bill Mackie said a high pressure area is continuing to build along the coast which should bring good weather to the area for the next two days.

However, winds likely will increase to around 20 miles an hour during daylight hours Friday as they are today, he said.

Overnight is expected to be free from overcast, allowing the little remaining moonlight this month to brighten the strait.

The 270-pound swimmer plans to make his swim in less than 10 hours if he swims according to schedule. If successful, Thomas will reach Port Angeles near 6 a.m. Friday.

He leaves the final decision on whether the weather looks favorable to his navigator Captain Hugh Evans, who has said he will wait for as near perfect conditions as possible.

China Pledges Aid to Soviet In Europe War

U.S. Castigated At Communist NATO

WARSAW (AP)—Communist China pledged today that she will fight alongside the Soviet Union and her allies if war is unleashed in Europe.

Peng Teh-huai, Red China's defense minister and deputy prime minister, made that declaration at today's session of the Warsaw conference of Soviet bloc nations. The conference was called to set up a Communist counterpart of NATO.

The Red Chinese delegate declared that Peiping stands firmly for peaceful co-existence. He said his government is ready to negotiate on any international differences, including Formosa.

8 SOVIET SATELLITES

Peng is attending the Warsaw conference as an observer. The eight conference nations are the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, Albania and East Germany.

Peng, according to an unofficial but full translation of his speech, told the delegates:

"If peace in Europe be encroached upon and if the imperialist aggressors unleash war against peaceful European countries then our government and our 600,000,000 heroic people will, together with the governments and peoples of our fraternal countries, conduct a struggle against aggression until ultimate victory is achieved."

Peng said "should there be a war, our countries will deal the imperialists a mortal blow following which the capitalist system will be definitely annihilated."

Peng accused the United States of seeking to dominate the world. He charged that American monopolists, intent on war for gaining world domination, "intensify from day to day their control of the economic and political lives of their country and can any day make an attack and drive the world into war."
